10 SURVIVORS FOUND AFTER PLANE LANDS AT SEA

SEEK TO CONNECT SLAIN MAN WITH BURGLARIES HERE

Monroe Parish And City Officers Go To Shreveport To View Victim

QUANTITY OF EXPLOSIVES FOUND IN HIS RESIDENCE

Killing Occurs When Police Of That City Attempt To Make Arrest

Seeking to connect Harry A. Wells, who was slain at Shreveport yesterday morning, with the burglary of the Eureka Grocery company here last Sunday morning of $1,500, Monroe peace officers left for Shreveport immediately after learning that Wells had been killed and a quantity of explosives had been found in his possession.

The party of Monroe officers included Sheriff Milton Coverdale, Chief of Police Frank V. Reitzell and Deputy Sheriff Frank X. Cline.

Sheriff Coverdale and Chief Reitzell hope that the recent series of burglaries and burglary attempts here can be cleared up through their investigations at Shreveport, but members of their departments here are not relaxing in vigilance as some other person or persons might be responsible, it was pointed out.

Explosives were used to force the safe at the grocery store here, and, according to reports from Shreveport, paraphernalia used for safe blowing was found in Wells' room and a bottle of nitroglycerine was uncovered beneath the porch of the rooming house in which he had been living.

The slaying of Wells by a Shreveport officer followed the robbery of the Motor Vehicle bureau there Friday.

An attempt to burglarize the Motor Vehicle bureau here was made last

RODEN ARRESTS SLAYER SUSPECT

Man Wanted In $39,000 Bank Robbery Captured Near Alexandria

BATON ROUGE, La., Jan. 21.—(AP)—Raymond Duvall, 30-year-old detective story reader wanted in a holdup slaying and $39,000 bank robbery, went to sleep with a magazine and pistol beside him and woke up under arrest today in a roomful of policemen.

Major Murphy Roden of the state police said that with a squad of officers he surprised Duvall in a farmhouse near Alexandria, La., woke him to face a circle of police pistols and found $2,500 in his money belt.

Federal bureau of investigation agents said Duvall was indicted for the holdup slaying of Clayton Potts, elderly foundry owner, in Indianapolis, Ind., on March 23, 1937, and for the robbery of the First National bank at South Charleston, W. Va., on March 19, 1938.

Two other men, Amos Eugene Ward, 25, and Leonard Jackson, 25, who F. B. I. agents said were Duvall's companions in the bank robbery, have been sentenced for that crime to 60 years each in the West Virginia penitentiary.

Jackson was also indicted in the Indianapolis slaying, the agents said.

Duvall came to Louisiana last October, Roden said, used the name "Bob McClain," and apparently had intended settling here for he had rented a 50-acre dairy farm and bought cattle near Lake Charles.

Roden credited State Policeman Leo Gentry with uncovering Duvall's identity by recognizing his face from a picture he had recently seen in a police journal.

"Duvall hid out a long time in Dallas, Tex.," Roden said. "Then he came to this state and lived at a farm in Holloway Prairie near Alexandria.

"A couple of months ago he went to Lake Charles, lived very quietly, and made acquaintances mostly among men who shared his enthusiasm for

PARENTS OF LOST SMALL BOY HUNTED

NEW ORLEANS, Jan. 21.—(AP)—State Police Captain Theophile Landry said tonight officers were searching for the parents of a small boy found wandering near the Mississippi river bridge below here last night.

He said the boy, about 7 or 8 years old, related that his mother put him out of an automobile trailer to buy candy, and that it later was driven off. Captain Landry said the boy gave his name as Elmer Bishop.

Hitler Forms Vast 'Shadow Army'

ALL MEN PAST 17 MUST JOIN SOME MILITARY UNIT

Only Jews And Criminals Are Exempted From Latest Armament Decrees

BROADEST WAR FOOTING OF PEACETIME HISTORY

Two Longtime Associates Of Dr. Hjalmar Schacht Are Discharged

BERLIN, Jan. 21.—(AP)—The Nazi regime acted today to put Germany on the broadest war footing of her peacetime history through establishment of a vast "shadow army."

Reichsfuehrer Hitler's latest move followed swiftly upon dismissal yesterday of Dr. Hjalmar Schacht in a "Nazification" of the Reichsbank which observers felt would give free reign to an intensified rearmament program.

The dismissal of Schacht, who was replaced by Dr. Walther Funk, economics minister, had caused George Rublee, American director of the intergovernmental refugee committees, to understand that negotiations for the emigration of German Jews had broken down.

Field Marshal Hermann Wilhelm Goering, Hitler's No. 1 aide, however, assured Rublee today that Germany was ready to continue the search for acceptable ways of sending her Jews abroad.

New decrees created the machinery for development of all able-bodied men over 17 years old—excepting Jews and criminals—into a military-trained, military-minded reserve for Germany's standing army estimated at 1,000,000 strong.

Hitler made it obligatory for every male after completing his military service to join defense units affiliated with the SA (Brownshirt National Socialist Storm troops) or to participate in other party formations such as the SS (Blackshirt Elite Guard), the NSKK (Motor Corps) or the NSBK (Flying Corps).

Another development in Nazi economic and military preparedness included ouster of two of Schacht's longtime associates, Friedrich W. Dreyse and Ernst Huelse, from the Reichsbank directorate. Dreyse was

CHINESE REPORT JAPANESE HALTED

Assert Invaders Fought To Standstill Despite Intensified Drives

SHANGHAI, Jan. 22 (Sunday).—(AP)—Chinese military reports today said the Japanese invaders had been fought to a standstill in south China despite their intensified offensives.

They reported a renewed Japanese effort to cross the West river near Samshui, some 20 miles west of Canton, had been repulsed.

The Chinese simultaneously drove a wedge into the sector, preventing the joining of Japanese forces near Samshui and others operating along the Canton railway north of Samshui, the advices said.

Reports from Pakhoi, southwestern Kwangtung province near French Indo-China, said Japanese warships shelled Chinese defenses along the coast yesterday, but land batteries prevented any landings by the invaders.

About 120 miles southwest of Shanghai the Chinese were reported to have recaptured Fuyang, 20 miles southwest of Hangchow, and Yuhang, 15 miles west of Hangchow. These had been points of deepest Japanese penetration in that sector since Hangchow fell December 24, 1937.

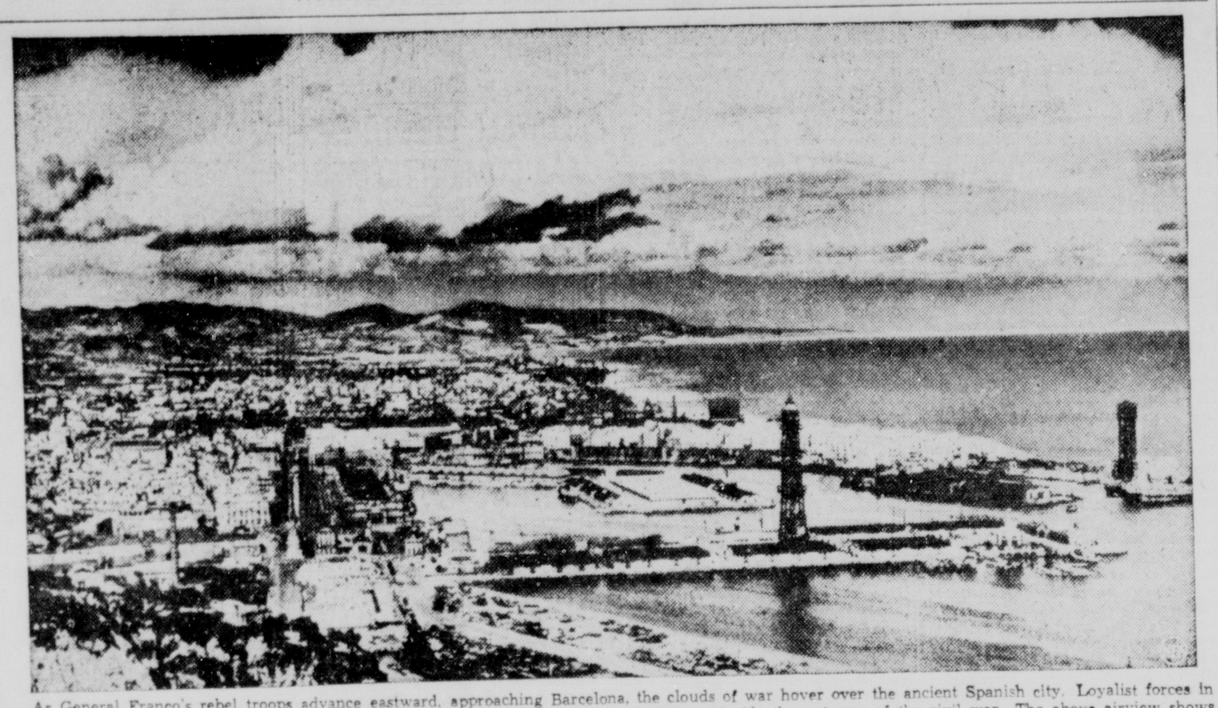

Chinese also were reported to have recaptured Changching, in north Chekiang province.

Japanese warplanes yesterday bombed Chinese defenses in cities along the Canton railway, including Chuchow, important railroad junction point in Hunan province 30 miles south of Changsha.

MAYORS TO MEET

SHREVEPORT, La., Jan. 21.—(AP)—Mayor Sam Caldwell, president of the Louisiana Conference of Mayors, has called a special meeting of the executive committee of the conference to be held here next Friday. The committee is to consider a proposal to hold the annual conference convention at Lafayette in March during the azalea season instead of in April as originally planned. The suggestion was made by Mayor Maxime Roy of Lafayette.

ADMINISTRATION SUFFERS DEFEAT

Senate Committee Refuses To Add $150,000,000 To WPA Spending Bill

WASHINGTON, Jan. 21.—(AP)—Administration lieutenants suffered another thumping defeat on the relief issue today when the senate appropriations committee rejected a proposal to add $150,000,000 to the WPA spending bill.

By a top-heavy vote of 17 to 7, the committee decided to retain the relief appropriation at $725,000,000—the sum voted in the house and approved by an appropriations subcommittee.

President Roosevelt had asked for $875,000,000 and had warned that a $150,000,000 cut in the allotment would throw 1,000,000 persons off relief rolls.

Administration leaders obviously were surprised by the big committee majority favoring the $725,000,000 allotment, but they immediately drafted strategy for a floor fight to increase the bill by $150,000,000.

They indicated they were not so confident, however, as they had been earlier that the senate would restore the cut.

One administration follower conceded that economy advocates might have sufficient votes now to retain the $725,000,000 appropriation, but said the picture might be changed next week.

He said that mayors, relief organizations and other interested parties undoubtedly would exert strong pressure for an increase in the appropriation and would sway some votes.

Republicans and Democrats opposing the higher figure were plainly jubilant. Several committeemen had predicted the $725,000,000 allotment would be approved by the margin of only a vote or two.

Senator Adams, Democrat, Colorado, floor manager for the measure, told reporters that "there is a very substantial chance that the senate will approve the committee bill."

"Several senators who had been expected to vote for $875,000,000 voted for the $725,000,000," he said. "I think that was partly due to a limitation on reduction of relief rolls during the winter months and partly due to a better understanding of the facts about unemployment."

Earlier, Adams had seen little chance

MANY EMPLOYMENT PLACEMENTS MADE

WASHINGTON, Jan. 21.—(AP)—Secretary of Labor Perkins reported today 230,268 jobs were filled by employment service offices in December, bringing the 1938 total of placements to 2,701,349. She said the December total included 160,982 jobs in private industry. Applications for work, she said, "continued the down trend which had been evident in recent months."

Total placements by states for December included:

Tennessee, 4,623; Alabama, 4,833; Mississippi, 3,729; Arkansas, 2,178; Louisiana, 3,860.

Gratifying Response Made In Drive To Aid Refugees

The response of the general public to the "Campaign for Humanity," a drive to aid refugees from central Europe, has been most gratifying, according to reports from committee chairmen yesterday, but it is imperative that every resident of the Twin Cities do his part if the local campaign is to succeed, it was said.

Theaters of the Twin Cities—the Paramount, Capitol and Siegel of Monroe and the Strand and Rialto of West Monroe—will donate their entire proceeds next Thursday to the fund, which will assist Jewish, Catholic and Protestant victims of persecution in Germany, Austria, Hungary and other European countries dominated by dictators. No expenses will be deducted either by the theaters or the committees conducting the campaign.

C. A. Prophit, general chairman of the campaign, said Saturday morning that the advance ticket sales drive has been most successful so far. Mr. Prophit said Briscoe Trousdale, chairman of the ticket committee, reported that approximately one thousand advance tickets had been sold. One committee member reported that she sold 20 tickets before the tickets had been delivered to her. Other committees reported sales of large blocks of tickets to various merchants and business men.

Mr. Trousdale said the business district of Monroe has been divided into smaller portions and that committees from various civic and fraternal organizations would canvass the business houses and individuals downtown. He also said that a committee to be appointed from the West Monroe Kiwanis club would take care of the drive in West Monroe.

The appointment of several additional committees was announced yesterday. The Rotary club committee

CLEAR WAY FOR OCEAN FLIGHTS

Political Importance Attached To Transatlantic Service Next Summer

WASHINGTON, Jan. 21.—(AP)—Great political importance is attached in diplomatic circles to the prospective beginning of transatlantic airplane service next summer.

There is the salient consideration that air routes between the United States and Britain and France will bring this country yet closer to the large democracies of Europe.

Diplomats say international airlines promote commerce, foster contacts of peoples of two nations and—of prime importance to governments—make possible frequent, personal talks between diplomats.

Also—there is the military consideration that development of the lines will lead to the training of additional aviators at a time when the United States is greatly improving its air defenses.

The type of flying will lend itself to the creation of a reserve of pilots particularly adapted to the navy's long-range patrol planes.

Significantly, the state department quickened its usual deliberate diplomatic pace to clear the way for transatlantic service to begin.

It suddenly terminated prolonged discussions with France this week with the announcement that an agreement had been negotiated for an airline between France and the United States.

Indications also prevail that a final understanding with Great Britain has been reached after more than three years of negotiations.

The department has organized itself to handle a multitude of problems that will grow out of the new services by creating a division of international communications, in charge of Thomas Burke, formerly of the department of commerce.

Many new chapters in international law may have to be written as the transatlantic air services develop.

BILL TO RETURN COTTON DRAFTED

Measure Proposes To Give Surplus Back To Farmers Producing It

WASHINGTON, Jan. 21.—(AP)—A bill to give government loan cotton back to the farmers—perhaps as much as 4,000,000 bales of it in a single year—was being drafted today by a group of southern senators.

Reports went about Capitol Hill during the week-end that this surplus-relief measure had received an encouraging word from the White House.

The plan, similar to that endorsed recently by a Washington gathering of cotton producers, would work something like this:

For compliance with the government's regular acreage quota system, the farmer would receive federal benefit payments—in money.

For a still further reduction in planted acreage, he would get another payment—this time in cotton, the same cotton that the government took as collateral on money it loaned to the farmer in earlier days of the New Deal.

Thus, reasoned sponsoring senators, it would accomplish at least a threefold purpose:

First, a reduction of 1939 production.

Second, a means of cutting down the government's heavy cotton holdings.

Third, a more generous system of benefits for the farmer.

To turn 4,000,000 bales of cotton back to the producer—assuming a 1939 price of $40 a bale—would be the equivalent of government benefits amounting to $160,000,000. The means of financing such an outlay was at odds, even among southern sponsors of the plan.

FORMER BANKER DIES

REBELS RECEIVE SEVERE SETBACK

Capture One Key Government Defense Point But Lose Another

HENDAYE, France (At The Spanish Frontier), Jan. 21.—(AP)—Spanish insurgents reported the capture of one key government defense point 22 miles from Barcelona today, but were driven back from another in apparently the worst setback of their smashing 30-day offensive.

Military dispatches said a Navarrese corps took Villafranca del Panades, west and south of Barcelona on the main highway between the government capital and Vendrell, and pushed on two miles beyond the town.

At the same time an official insurgent radio broadcast from Burgos declared Igualada, 28 air miles from Barcelona, had been completely encircled again after the insurgents had been driven from the textile center earlier in the day by a ferocious counter-attack by government forces.

Government reports said, however, the insurgents had been thrown back six miles west to the town of Jorba, on the Cervera-Igualada-Barcelona road.

Villafranca del Panades and Igualada are the central two of the four main points in the Barcelona defense line.

Only Manresa, 28 miles northwest of Barcelona on the northern end of the defense line, and Villanueva y Geltru, 22 miles to the southwest on the Mediterranean remained to hold up the defense system.

Just after nightfall the insurgents were within 10 miles of Manresa and six miles from Villanueva.

Insurgent troops were reported to have been driven out of the industrial town of Igualada by a withering machine-gun fire from government troops striking back through a cover of pine groves.

(An insurgent report late today said, however, that another force had captured Villafranca del Panades and swept on beyond the town to within 20 miles of Barcelona.

(Villafranca del Panades, 22 miles west and south of Barcelona, is on the main highway between the government capital and Vendrell and has been described as one of the four key points in the Barcelona defenses.)

General Franco's field headquarters at Lerida, which last night announced the capture of Igualada, and the insurgent command at Burgos both admitted today that the vital city, 28 air

BILL AGAINST CHAIN STORES CRITICIZED

DALLAS, Tex., Jan. 21.—(AP)—Directors of the Tenth District, Advertising Leagues of America, meeting here today, adopted a resolution opposing the chain store tax bill introduced in congress by Representative Wright Patman, Democrat, Texas.

The resolution characterized the measure as discriminatory and likely to injure farmers if enacted, and said destruction of chain stores, at which it said the measure aimed, would cancel an annual $200,000,000 advertising budget.

The resolution estimated Arkansas, Louisiana, Oklahoma, and Texas, receive $6,200,000 of that amount.

AUTO WORKERS' UNION TO FACE COURT BATTLES

Suspension Of Board Members And Impeachment Of President Muddles Affairs

CRITICAL LABOR PROBLEM BEFORE MANUFACTURERS

Martin Asserts Dispute Is Not Matter For Settlement By C. I. O.

DETROIT, Jan. 21.—(AP)—Impending battles, in law courts and in local union ranks, for control of the lusty young automobile workers' union, threatened the automotive industry tonight with its most critical labor problem since the widespread sit-down strikes of 1937.

The industry which for three years has had but one dominant union—the C. I. O.'s United Automobile Workers—now has two unions, in everything but name.

Two factions, each claiming "official" status, contested for the authority of U. A. W. contracts with manufacturers, for title to the U. A. W. name and to its treasury, and for allegiance of a claimed membership of nearly 400,000 workers.

A costly internecine struggle in local union ranks appeared a certainty, with its effect on automotive plant operations unpredictable.

Leaders of the contesting groups were reported in conference with attorneys preparatory to seeking court injunctions against interference by the opposition.

The merry-go-round of suspensions—President Homer Martin ousting 15 members of the 24-man executive board and subsequently being impeached by the men he suspended—left only one international officer untouched by the punitive actions. He was Walter N. Wells, a vice-president who is aligned with the anti-Martin group but who has been out of the city since the latest flare-up of factional strife.

Martin met reports today that the full support of the Congress of Industrial Organizations had been thrown to his foes with the statement:

"This is an issue between the union; it is not a C. I. O. issue."

He previously has charged C. I. O.

RUPPERT ESTATE MAY STAY INTACT

Deep Inroads Will Be Made, However, By Federal And State Taxes

NEW YORK, Jan. 21.—(AP)—The vast baseball, brewing and building estate which bachelor Colonel Jacob Ruppert left to three women will be held intact if the trustees have their way, which was the colonel's wish, even against deep inroads which state and federal taxes may make into the multi-millions.

Byron Clark, Jr., one of the trustees and the colonel's personal lawyer, said today the trustees would "extend every effort" to prevent liquidation and that he believed they could keep the estate together.

Principal beneficiaries were Miss Helen Winthrope Weyant, former actress and a "dear friend of the colonel, who was surprised at her sudden fortune, and two of Colonel Ruppert's nieces, Mrs. Joseph Holleran and Mrs. J. Basil Maguire.

Value of the estate has been variously estimated at from $40,000,000 to $70,000,000. Clark said no definite figure could be obtained until a complete inventory and appraisal had been made. The inventory will be started soon.

If the estate value is between $40,000,000 and $45,000,000, not less than 60

THREE MISSING AND THOUGHT TO HAVE DROWNED

Those Alive Found Clinging To Wreckage Of Battered Cavalier

COLD AND EXHAUSTED BY 10-HOUR FIGHT IN WATER

Unable To Be Questioned And Names Of Those Rescued Not Known

NEW YORK, Jan. 22(Sunday)—(AP)—The tanker Esso Baytown reported to the coast guard early today that it had found 10 survivors out of 13 persons aboard the British flying boat Cavalier which was forced down at sea between New York and Bermuda yesterday. The report said three were lost, apparently drowned.

The ten survivors were found clinging to the wreckage of the battered Cavalier, which had been forced down by heavy icing at 1:13 p.m. eastern standard time after leaving New York for Bermuda.

Cold and exhausted by their ten-hour battle against the waves, the survivors could not be questioned immediately, the coast guard learned.

Names of the survivors were not known immediately.

The coast guard cutter Champlain which was standing near the Esso Baytown swept the tossing sea with its powerful searchlights, trying to locate the three missing persons.

The report of the rescue from the Esso Baytown to the coast guard at 12:20 a.m. read:

"We picked up 10 survivors. These survivors feel certain the other three are lost."

The Baytown, owned by the Standard Oil company of New Jersey, was the first rescue ship to reach the scene of the crash of the huge seaplane.

About a dozen air and surface craft engaged in a 10-hour search for the stricken ship, a 20-ton luxurious giant

STRIKE MENACES RADIO AIRWAYS

2,000 Entertainers, Including Biggest Stars, Await Call To Strike

NEW YORK, Jan. 21.—(AP)—A profound silence over the nation's radio airways was threatened tonight, amid a few cheers from anti-dial "die hards," as 2,000 entertainers including radio's biggest stars, awaited a call to strike for higher wages.

"It is the old, old story that despite our desire to arrive at an agreement by negotiation, we must show our force," said Eddie Cantor, big-eyed comedian and president of the American Federation of Radio Actors, in Hollywood.

Among those subject to a strike call, as members of the federation, are Edgar ("Charlie McCarthy") Bergen, Bing Crosby, Rudy Vallee, Jack Benny, Phil Baker and many Hollywood movie stars. Lawrence Tibbett, the opera singer, and Jascha Heifitz, violinist, are vice-presidents.

The wage dispute arising between the A. F. R. A. and the "Four-A" American Association of Advertising Agencies led the Chicago local to vote unanimously in favor of a strike upon orders from the federation's national executive board.

The New York local had taken similar action earlier this week, and balloting was scheduled late tonight in Hollywood and tomorrow in San Francisco.

In an eleventh-hour move to stave off the country's first air entertainers' walkout, Charles J. Post, a federal la-

KIDNAP JUDGMENT OF $6,500 UPHELD

MEMPHIS, Tenn., Jan. 21.—(AP)—Federal Judge John D. Martin today denied a motion by Mrs. Caroline Tucker of Memphis seeking to have set aside a judgment won recently by victims of an alleged kidnaping.

W. F. Cruse and his 18-month-old son were awarded $6,500 after a federal court jury heard testimony charging Mrs. Tucker, Crude's former landlady, with driving the Cruse family into Mississippi in a truck and abandoning them on the roadside during a rainstorm. The suit charged that several of the seven Cruse children were ill at the time.

Mrs. Tucker, who was not represented at the jury hearing, sought to have the judgment quashed on the grounds she had been advised "it would do no good to appear in federal court without a lawyer."

Judge Martin recently requested a grand jury investigation into the case,

PAINT PRODUCTS DEMONSTRATED

Pittsburgh Glass Company Holds Annual Affair At Slagle-Johnson Firm

The fifth annual demonstration on the products of the Pittsburgh Glass company, conducted at the plant of the Slagle-Johnson Lumber company, Inc., Friday night, was attended by more than 100 invited guests. Among the number were city officials, headed by P. A. Poag, E. L. Neville, city school superintendent; Murray Hudson, prominent local attorney; W. E. Leigh, Milton King, Dr. R. L. Wood, Henry Gibbs and numerous members of building crafts of the Twin Cities.

The assemblage was greeted by Elmer C. Slagle, vice-president of the Slagle-Johnson Lumber company, who in turn presented W. S. Asbury, paint manager of the Shreveport warehouse of the Pittsburgh Plate Glass company, and T. W. Hardy, representative from the warehouse. W. K. Hoffman, traveling representative of the Pittsburg hcompany, presented an instructive talk on paints and other products of his company, in which he emphasized the value of paint styling, which is able to create an illusion of newness at a small expenditure, in many cases. With panels he gave a graphic demonstration of how interior of rooms can be transformed by the use of the correct style of wall paper.

He discussed the time payment plan which he said enables the public to make improvements without financial inconvenience. Sums are loaned through the Pittsburgh time payment plan that vary from $69.50 to $2,000, he said. He then discussed the use of tested and tried materials such as his company furnishes.

Following the talk by Mr. Hoffman, Mr. Asbury showed a film which illustrated the various processes that are used by the Pittsburgh Glass company in the preparation of their paint products.

A barbecue lunch was served immediately following the showing of the film.

MISSOURI PACIFIC CLUB HOLDS MEET

"Selling America Short," was the theme of an address by George Wesley Smith, attorney, before members of the Missouri Pacific Booster club, at the clubhouse Friday night.

The speaker said that he had lived long and studied conditions carefully and had seen depressions and repressions come and go. But through them all, he said, he could see the future and that it is filled with promise for America. If a person thinks prosperity has gone never to return, he is selling America short, the speaker said.

Short talks were made by J. Cannon, St. Louis, Mo., chief Missouri Pacific operating officer; W. E. Lamb, Little Rock, Ark., general Missouri Pacific superintendent; George Stohlman, also of Little Rock, general freight agent; and J. S. Bassett, division superintendent.

CHAPTER XVI

It was not easy to tell her mother that she had openly championed Marvel, openly asserted that Admiral Alcott would appear at the housewarming. But she stumbled through it, and her mother said pityingly, "I see, Judy. That's what Dwight asked when he came the other night?" She ruffled the girl's silky hair. "I know you want to do your best for him. Very well, then. I—I'll speak to your father."

So the thing was settled, and the night of the housewarming a long line of cars crawled to a stop in front of Marvel's house. Judy wondered if Marvel even knew how close her party had come to failure.

But when she and Jack Hanley were inside, greeting their hostess, she realized that Marvel didn't have the faintest inkling. Such a thing had never occurred to her. She was really magnificent in her self-assurance. And there were other people present. Outside friends. A tall, thin girl with scarlet fingernails and a queer, short hairdo. "Kay Roseter, the cinema star," said Marvel. "You'll love her. She's so unique."

"This is Cary Tennant," Marvel said, a moment later, and Judy looked up into the narrow, sardonic eyes of the man she had seen twice before. In the Paradise, and at the wedding.

"How do you do?" Judy murmured.

"Charmed," said Mr. Tennant, and his thin face smiled. But his eyes didn't smile.

"All the naval regalia makes me feel just a bit effete," he said to Jack. "You navy boys are such virile blokes."

Jack said, "Hornyhanded, hairy-chested," and grinned. But Judy sensed that he didn't like Cary Tennant any better than she did.

The house that Marvel's decorator had evolved was a thing of black floors, angled sofas, extremely low chairs, and whole walls of mirror glass. There were white gazelles on glass-topped tables; white rugs in little splotches on the dark floor; gleaming chromium.

"It looks like a machine shop," said Jack.

"Hush!"

It was really imposing, if you cared for modernity. But Judy didn't. She had always liked old mahogany and Virginia sofas.

Kay Roseter, on being presented to Admiral Alcott, informed him that her last picture had been a navy picture. "We had the most distinguished Englishman playing the role of admiral."

"I don't doubt," said Judy's father solemnly, "but that he looked the part much more than I do."

Kay Roseter's stiff-lashed, hazel eyes opened wide. "I didn't mean that at all! Dear me, admiral, I am really too much in awe of you to indulge in—"

"Don't be, my dear. I'm merely human."

"But Marvel says the whole setup is too, too overpowering. She had me actually believing I'd have to curtsey."

Dwight hastily put in a respectful word or two, and Kay Roseter drifted off. Captain and Mrs. Lane, who were politely trying not to stare at the hooting, shouting group across the room, came up. Judy said, "I don't believe I've met all the people."

Dwight said, "That's Cary Tennant's group, making the noise. They're nice when you know them. Shall I take you over there?"

• • •

Judy found that the center of the merrymaking was a young debutante called "Slim" Jarrett. She was ugly in an animated way, and Judy guessed that her personality was famous among her friends. She was that sort. "Slim" pounced on Judy. "You're the typical navy girl Dwight was telling us about. You'd be at home in a trunk, or in Guam, or in the jungle, isn't that right?"

"You've got me mixed with the Englishman who dresses for dinner," said Judy.

Dwight grinned. Judy met Diane's eyes. Diane and Bill and Magda Hamilton and her husband were standing near a bookcase. They had been reading the titles of the books.

A Chinese servant carrying a tray of cocktail glasses circulated among the guests. Marvel said, "If anybody wants to dance, I've had the back porch changed into a sort of patio."

People trooped through the dining room, out the French doors to view the patio. Judy thought, "She might as well have bought a new home. She's practically made this one over."

Jack Hanley, who had been sticking pretty close to Judy all evening, said in a low voice, "I feel sick. Let's stay out here and watch the stars."

"What's wrong with you?" she asked.

"I've had a stiff dose of snobbery," he replied. "Those friends of hers are poisonous."

"You simply don't know them. They're not your kind."

"That's it. The rarefied air is killing me. And say, I don't think the skipper liked the sound of a remark Cary Tennant passed."

Judy said crisply, "It's silly to attach too much importance to these things. They're Marvel's friends."

"So what?"

He had not yet mentioned the fact that Judy was responsible for her father and mother's presence. But she knew he understood the state of affairs, and while she seated herself in a white metal chair, she waited for him to speak.

But he didn't. He said, "You're a gallant kid, Judy. Did I ever tell you I like you?"

"You told me."

"So what again, eh?"

She didn't answer. The rest had gone back into the house, now. There was only the sound of their voices, muffled a little, and the warmth of the night, and a smell of flowers from the garden that reminded her curiously of the wedding in the church.

Then they heard footsteps coming out toward them. A woman's voice said, "But they're impossible! They're positively provincial. If that's the navy I'll take New York's east side."

Judy stiffened. Jack was sitting very still.

A man replied. Cary Tennant, Judy was certain. "Marvel's just having a little fling," he said. "It won't last long. The man was handsome and she wanted some fun. She'll get over it. She's not the girl to stick in the mud."

"I—I think we'd better get up and make a noise," Judy said quickly. "I don't want to hear any more of that!"

Jack looked at her. "You didn't need to hear it to know, did you? These people are all false. Thrill chasers. Moneyed bums. Who was it said—life in E flat?"

Then Cary's suave voice was closer. "Hello, there. I thought we had Marvel's little rustic two-by-four to ourselves."

"Apparently," said Jack. "Come, Judy."

MANY '39 AUTO PLATES NEEDED

12,000 Licenses Expected To Be Sold By February 5, States Hanna

The Monroe branch of the state motor vehicle bureau, 212 North Second street, through Manager Fred Hanna, reported Saturday that 5,935 license plates for 1939 had been sold up to Friday night. Mr. Hanna said that an estimated 12,000 plates will be sold before February 5, the deadline, after which an added penalty will be required for delinquency.

The chauffeur licenses are all delinquent already and 1939 licenses should be purchased at once, Mr. Hanna said, to avoid trouble as arrests will result where cars, driven by chauffeurs without new license plates are found on highways.

The license bureau is being kept open Saturday afternoons to accommodate those who can secure new licenses only at that time. From now on to February 5, it is expected that there will be a big rush to secure plates and Mr. Hanna asks that clients fill out applications for presentation at his office so that there may be no unnecessary delays experienced.

PRESERVATION OF LIBERTY URGED

Stahlman Asserts Press Free 'Through Own Determination To Stay So'

FRESNO, Calif., Jan. 21.—(AP)—A call to American publishers to protect all forms of constitutional liberty as well as freedom of the press was voiced by James G. Stahlman, president of the American Newspaper Publishers association.

He asserted fundamental liberties might be endangered most when the people were least aware of the peril.

Speaking before the 51st annual convention of the California Newspaper Publishers association, Stahlman described as "silly" the view of some people that the American public was losing its interest in newspapers and turning to other mediums for its information.

He asserted the press had remained free "through its own determination to stay so, and not through the protested love of many in public office for the so-called freedom of the press."

"The press of this country as a whole," said Stahlman, "does a remarkably free job, considering all the efforts to hamstring it, both by special interests as well as by the government."

He said "a distinguished student of the constitution" wrote in 1907 that "the English people * * * have found that their liberties were never so really in danger as when they knew it least, never so nearly lost as under the kings they liked best."

The student was quoted as saying the English people lost their liberties usually when they were of the same mind as their king—when they were bent upon subordinating their rights to accomplish some immediate end.

"How true that utterance is today!" said Stahlman. "How necessary that our people be on guard against those encroachments which might sometime sweep away their liberties, protected only by a free press, the constitution and an incorruptible supreme court!"

Stahlman asserted attempts were being made and would continue to be made toward fettering the press, and listed among them "efforts at governmental regulation and license, excessive taxation, legislative suppression, official oppression, attempted bribery and corruption, and murder."

He recalled the slaying of Don Mellett, editor of the Canton, Ohio, News, July 16, 1926, as an effort to smother the free press.

"His end," said Stahlman, "was a flaming tribute to militant journalism which even death cannot dim."

The A. N. P. A. president also defended James A. Mathews, publisher, and Howard Anderson, editor, of the Aberdeen, S. D., Morning News, for criticising a court's leniency toward a public official who had pleaded guilty to forgery. The court cited Mathews and Anderson for contempt.

The assassination in 1935 of Walter Liggett, a newspaper man, in Minneapolis, "almost paralleled" the Mellett case, Stahlman said. "Liggett paid the price of journalistic truth," Stahlman added, "when aimed at crooks."

"The press of America," he continued, "is determined that it never will submit to censorship by legislative enactment, executive fiat, the jingle of tainted money, nor bullets from the dark."

Stahlman said he agreed with the recent statement of President Roosevelt that "our newspapers cannot be edited in the interests of the general public from the counting room."

"I do not subscribe, however, to his implication that the newspapers of America are edited from the counting room," Stahlman said.

The A. N. P. A. president conceded that some newspapers, "perhaps all too many," were in that class, but argued there was no ground for believing that the press in general was controlled "by special interests, through their cash registers."

COYOTES GETTING FASTER, BUT WHY?

AMARILLO, Tex.—(AP)—Coyotes, like automobiles, are faster and faster these days.

Marion Smith, rancher student of wildlife, says it is because of the relentless war being waged against the predators.

"In chases, the slower coyotes naturally are caught first, leaving the better stock to perpetuate the race," says Smith.

But old timers assert that even in Indian times the coyote was a speedy traveler.

WAREHOUSE MAN GIVEN 30 YEARS

HUNTSVILLE, Ala., Jan. 21.—(AP)—Claude E. Spivey, Scottsboro, Ala., warehouse man, faced imprisonment in federal penitentiary for 30 years today after conviction and sentence for falsifying government cotton loan notes worth $150,000 and for using the mails to defraud.

Roderick Beddow, chief defense council, announced review would be sought before the United States circuit court of appeals.

Spivey was sentenced to 40 years' imprisonment, 10 to run concurrently.

Spivey, who operated the North Alabama Warehouse company at Scottsboro and the South Pittsburgh (Tenn.) Gin company, was charged specifically with accepting cotton loan notes signed in blank and later filling them out for amounts of cotton in excess of that placed as loan security. Falsified notes were sent through the mails, federal attorneys charged.

Indicted with Spivey were two employes, Walter M. Allison, former mayor of Stevenson, Ala., and Gordon T. Foster. Allison and Foster pleaded nolo contendere to the charges and testified for the government. They were placed on two years' probation by the court of recommendation of United States District Attorney Jim C. Smith.

Three buildings occupied by Spivey's warehouse company burned January 10, 1938, date set for an inspection by state agents.

SOUTHERN BEAUTY LOSING TO BRAWN

DURHAM, N. C.—(AP)—Southern belles may not like it, but, according to Duke university statistics, Dixie is becoming more famous for brawn than for beauty.

Out of 18 first-stringers on Duke's Rose Bowl football squad, 14 were southern boys. Of 20 coed beauties selected in a campus poll, only eight were southern girls.

North Carolina itself had seven representatives among the gridsters, only four among the beauties. The university's home state was far ahead of any other states in the number of top notch football players but tied with Pennsylvania in the beauty class, each having four.

No Additional Taxes

Following the announcement some ten days ago that the Missouri Pacific railroad would remove its domicile from Monroe to a village in East Baton Rouge parish, there was some apprehension here that the city, and perhaps the parish, would be forced to levy additional taxes to make up for the lost revenue.

It was argued, and perhaps reasonably, that the city, which actually operates on five mills, would find it necessary to increase taxes or cut expenses to the extent that such important divisions of the city government as the police and fire departments, for instance, would not be able to provide adequate protection for the citizenship. The removal of the Missouri Pacific will cost the city approximately $49,000, with almost a third of this amount lost to the schools of the city. This includes, of course, millage for bond issues.

A survey of the situation reveals, fortunately, that it will not be necessary to increase taxes or to curtail the service rendered by important departments of the city government.

It appears that the city has functioned most economically under the leadership of Mayor Harvey Benoit and Commissioners W. D. H. Rodriguez and C. R. Tidwell. A little more than two years ago, the city owed approximately $200,000 above its bonded indebtedness. Today, with the efficient collection of taxes and a substantial increase in revenue of our public utilities, this indebtedness has been practically wiped out. The survey reflects careful, economical management by the three men who constitute the city's "board of directors."

Likewise, it doesn't appear that the parish will find it necessary to levy an additional tax to replace revenue lost. The parish was hit less heavily than the city in that only about $13,000 will be lost through the removal of the railroad's domicile. The parish police jury has been diligent in "watching the corners" and a continuance of this policy is to be expected.

Just what effect the loss of revenue will have on the city school remains to be seen. Perhaps the revamping of our school system will be necessary but in any event, the people will insist that the efficient operation of our schools does not depend upon an added tax.

With every merchant and every property owner already overburdened with taxation of one form or another, it is refreshing to learn that there's no prospect of another load being piled upon the taxpayer's back.

TIME OUT

No time clock punching in the New Hampshire legislature.

Down went the proposal before the votes of the members—and maybe it's just as well. For if the measure had passed—

The scene: a political rally in a New Hampshire county seat. The speaker: a candidate for the legislature.

"I demand Herman Spout's seat in the house on the grounds that he is not properly representing this district. In my hand I hold the time records to prove it! These show that my worthy opponent was tardy 39 times during the past session without once, mind you, not once showing a pink excuse slip from his mother.

"I have faithfully punched the time clock exactly on the hours of 8 a.m., noon, 1 p.m., and 5 p.m. during 15 years of service at the Jones emporium. I leave the decision in your hands, my friends."

LET'S CLEAR THIS UP

It wouldn't be the first time that an utterance from the bench needed a little clarification, but Supreme Court Justice McReynolds' observation that he didn't think Kentucky women used cosmetics shouldn't be allowed to hang in the air.

The justice, himself a Kentuckian and a bachelor, doubted during a court hearing that women of the Blue Grass state, famed for their beauty, used such things as rouge, lipstick, powder, etc.

Did he mean they were so unsophisticated in the arts of feminine beauty that they hadn't learned to use such aids to beauty or did he imply that Kentucky's women are so bountifully endowed by nature that cosmetics are superfluous?

What did you mean, your honor?

CLEVER BUSINESS

Did you notice the shrewd startegy employed by California in connection with the Duke-Southern California football game played January 2 in the Rose bowl at Pasadena? California propaganda building up Duke was constant, in press and radio. Over and over against the phrase "undefeated, untied, unscored on," was applied to the North Carolina team. Continually did California advertise the Duke team as being an opponent so terrible that to think of it was to quake. (However, the use of the word "quake" is sternly forbidden in California.)

It is excellent psychology when approaching a contest, to make your opponent seem as formidable as possible. Then if you beat him, the greater appears your victory; while if he beats you, the less appears your defeat.

WASHINGTON DAYBOOK

By PRESTON GROVER

WASHINGTON — Circuit Judge Harold M. Stephens, who has been considered President Roosevelt's first choice for the supreme court appointment, advanced to eminence in the New Deal by a combination of deep legal scholarship and odd pranks of fate.

Like Ferdinand the Bull, he never learned to play. For relaxation he studied. Some 15 years of such study, as a judge and in private practice in Utah, sent his health into a tail spin. So in 1928 he let up by going back to Harvard a third time for more legal training.

By 1933 he was refreshed and ready for work and up popped an opportunity. Senator Walsh of Montana, Roosevelt's first selection for attorney general, had died and Homer Cummings was appointed instead. Cummings began looking about for a scholarly lawyer combining both practical experience and broad academic training to help write the wealth of opinions called for by the rapidly expanding national government.

Lost NRA Defense

He turned to Senator Thomas of Utah, elected fresh from a professorial chair at the University of Utah, as a man who might know a man with much academic background. Thomas suggested Stephens and he got the job as assistant attorney general. Later he became "the" assistant in charge of the anti-trust division. That put him in the "little cabinet."

One of his first big jobs was to defend NRA—and he lost. It was he who frankly put his finger on the weakness in NRA which students of the case believe brought its downfall in the supreme court.

Justice Brandeis asked him where were these industrial and business codes which formed such an essential part of NRA. It was the administrative weakness of NRA that the codes were scattered from Zebu to Zebulon. Stephens said they were scattered that way and the supreme court, which like sits law written where all may get at it, threw up its hands in horror at such "delegation run riot" and scuttled the works.

But Cummings had developed a keen liking for Stephens. So when the vacancy occurred on the circuit court of appeals of the District of Columbia, Stephens had the backing of the department of justice.

Similarly he seems to have had it with some consistency since he developed into a supreme court prospect.

Many Different Angles

Actually there are many pros and cons about his appointment. There is no political necessity of courting Utah with appointments. Three of the four members of the congressional delegation are loyal to the administration, while the fourth, Senator King, is so bitterly opposed that reclaiming him is out of the question. Second, Stephens already has a life tenure job on the circuit court. As an important third point, it is widely reported that he was opposed to the president's court bill.

In his behalf, his friends have steadily urged that he is a scholarly, profound law student, loyal to the New Deal in all respects except the court plan. Patent litigation, his specialty since appointment to the court of appeals, is likely to find wide application if congress goes into patent legislation as an outgrowth of the monopoly investigation. Perhaps equally important, there is no western member on the court, although two vast fields of litigation, irrigation and mining, were born and raised in the west. Stephens, as a Utahan, meets that consideration.

Some of his associates say the 52-year-old attorney is so scholarly and profound in his attention to details that he is dismally slow in writing opinions. And the court could use a youngish fast performer able to absorb a growing load as advancing age retards the pace of the present members.

IT'S A NEAT TRICK---

By BRUCE CATTON

Between the congressman orating earnestly in the capitol and the posterity that will one day muse over his remarks there is a great gulf.

Bridging this gulf is the Congressional Record.

Jokes have been made about the Record ever since George Washington's day. It is popularly supposed to be one of the world's driest publications. But there is nothing at all dry about the way it is gotten out. There is a job geared to speed, a job done as smoothly and quickly as any in the land.

Twelve official reporters are the shock troops. Six of them work in the senate and six in the house. It is up to them to take down every word that is said in each chamber, reduce it to type and start it on its way to the government printing office. Unofficially, they are the congress's guardians of clean speech, good grammar, and literary embellishment.

The official reporter—an artist in shorthand—may use a pencil and he may use a pen; if the latter, he wears on one finger a tiny cylinder full of ink, made in some trick fashion so that the ink won't spill. The oratory may come as fast as 200 words a minute, but that makes no difference; these reporters are geared to a 250-word clip.

In the senate, he is relieved at the end of 12 minutes, hot or cold; in the house he works until he thinks he has enough and then turns the assignment over to someone else. In either case, when he leaves the floor he goes at once to his office and reads what he has just written into a telephonograph machine. A typist transcribes all of this as soon as he has finished, and he takes the manuscript back to the chamber and sends a copy to each member therein quoted.

The member reads what he has said and polishes it. He may delete cuss words and reconstruct grammatical errors, but he is not supposed to alter the meaning of what he has said.

When everything is properly polished up, the manuscript goes to the government printing office. By midnight, every word spoken on either floor is in type; by 4 in the morning, the Congressional Record is ready for distribution.

The job isn't over even then, however. Before the Record becomes part of the government's permanent files, members may submit corrections. As a sample: Congressman Knutson arose on the floor the other day to point out that Russian caviar had been omitted from a menu he offered in a satirical comment on the Jackson day dinner. The correction was duly made, and Russian caviar goes to the constituents.

With permission of the house or senate, which is almost invariably granted, a member can get included in the appendix of the Record—a section printed at the back, daily—an extension of his remarks. These may be anything under the sun—speeches he admires or has made off the floor, letters from constituents backing up some point he has made, poetry he happens to like.

It costs about $50 a page to print the Record. (This doesn't include the cost of maintaining the corps of official reporters, nor the cost of maintaining the congressmen; just the actual cost of setting the type, making the plates, proof-reading, binding, and so on incurred by the government printing office.) Last year the Record ran to 13,386 pages and set the taxpayer back about $669,300.

The official reporters are paid $7,500 a year. They are miffed, though, because the comptroller general not long ago ruled that the job of shorthand reporting is not a profession. They think it is, say it takes from six to 10 years to make a good shorthand reporter.

Human Side Of The News

By EDWIN C. HILL

(Copyright, 1938, by King Features Syndicate, Inc.)

When the great, white-winged square-riggers carried the trade of the world over the Seven seas, men talked about short cuts to far places, especially short cuts between the far east and Europe, escaping the stormy, dreaded voyage around Cape Horn. Engineers came to the rescue of the mariners, the traders and the tourists and with the Suez canal, the waters of the Red sea and the Mediterranean were joined. With the Panama canal the Pacific ocean was linked with the Atlantic.

Today those two canals again make big news. Italy demands that the French government set up a new authority to administer the Suez, contending that control of the canal should be in the hands of those nations that make the greatest use of this short cut to the orient. The financial structure is principally in the hands of the French. French investors own more than 50 per cent of the stock. Great Britain has about 44 per cent. And the Netherlands has a small share in the control. Italy would change all that.

Under the arrangement Mussolini's government suggests, Great Britain would be the leading power because more of her ships pass through the canal. Italy would be second because of the trade she has gained since the capture of Ethiopia, most of which passes through the Suez. France would rank several notches down, even below Germany. As regards Panama, our own great canal, the governor of the Canal Zone, Colonel C. S. Ridley, urges upon the war department that the water link between the two oceans be enlarged, that new locks be built to augment those already in use, and that the present locks be made bombproof at once. Word comes from Washington that congress will study these recommendations in this present session.

Congress will consider, also, a growing demand that our $3,000,000 option with Nicaragua, permitting us to build an Atlantic-Pacific canal through that republic, be exercised, and that a second "life-line" be provided for our national security. A second trans-oceanic canal is important, it is argued, not only for our own national security, but as further protection for the republics of Central and South America.

Our statesmen no longer ignore the potential threat from the propaganda which has been deluging the Latin-American republics and which has been definitely hostile to American interests. It is a threat the United States cannot possibly ignore. We have not only the obligation to defend the small and weaker republic of the south, but our financial stake in South America alone is tremendous. We have more money invested in the ten republics of South America than in any other area of the world except Canada; more than in all Europe, or in Asia. Two billion dollars would hardly total those investments.

But that, after all, is secondary to the threat to our national security—or the menace to our peace—of a powerful European or Asiatic nation, greedy for raw materials, taking over, in some guise or other, a state of the western hemisphere. The republics of the south are awake to their own danger. They are proud of their individuality and their culture. They don't want outside doctrines imposed upon them. This same situation will be sure to make the Nicaragua canal a live issue.

There is likely to be a strong recommendation to congress to authorize the 175-mile Nicaragua canal. We paid three million dollars to Niacaragua in 1916 for a 100-year right to build it, and for the right to establish a naval base at each end. The total cost is estimated at $732,000,000 and the time of building is ten years. The distance between New York and San Francisco would be cut about 1,000 miles; the time by two days or more. With two canals, though, the job of forcing our fighting ships to go around South America to get from Atlantic to Pacific or vice versa would be all but impossible for any enemy.

The great lighthouse on Fire island, whose golden beam points the way to New York, and which rears 168 feet above the sands of the wave-battered stretch of coast, now propels a 19-mile beam of light from a huge electric bulb. Electricity replaces kerosene and the old Fire Island lighthouse catches up with the times.

What drama that lighthouse has seen down through the sweep of years. What tall ships ashore! What gallant rescues! What romance there is in all of those great lighthouses of the world! They go back in their thrilling history to the beacon fires that burned in Lower Egypt more than four thousand years ago; to the great Pharoahs of Alexandria, one of the seven wonders of the world before Caesar reigned in Rome. Their radiance, steady and unfaltering, or coming as a sudden, surprising glow in the gale and gloom, illuminates one's travels in odd corners of the world.

There is a thrill in their very names. The great Light of Corduan, that immense, wave-swept tower, rising two hundred feet above its high rock at the mouth of the Gironde in France; the ancient light tower at Corunna, Spain, the "Pillar of Hercules," the last spark of life seen by ships heading westward for the Americas; Torre del Capo, at Genoa, built eight hundred years ago, springing two hundred and thirty-six feet above its cliff; Great Eddystone light, off Plymouth, England, casting the savage glare of two hundred and ninety-two thousand candles, burning as one, over the perilous shoals of the Hands Deeps; Bishop Rock and Fastnet Lighthouse, the first lights seen by great liners on their passage to England, and the last landmark they glimpse on their way to New York.

One of the most interesting and storm-beaten of all is Fastnet Rock lighthouse on the extreme southeast corner of the coast of Ireland. Even to land on Fastnet Rock is an exciting experience. Before it was rebuilt waves dashed right over the lantern, 173 feet above the surface of the sea. So terrific was the shock of the sea that a full cup of coffee standing on a table in the very top room was hurled to the floor when heavy waves thundered against the living rock.

Even in these modern days, when ships speak to ship by radio and call to land, the men who go down to the sea in ships turn their eyes gratefully to these tall, slim brethren of the coasts fighting their eternal fight against the ancient enemy.

OUR CHILDREN

By ANGELO PATRI

Working with mothers and children I think I see something of a common habit among mothers. Each of them seems to have in mind some particular pattern of child upon which she wants to fashion her youngster. Usually the child does not fit the pattern; occasionally it does.

Having a pattern for a child's training is a good idea in itself. The trouble comes in selecting a pattern that is wrong for the child in question. If he happens to be hand-minded, then trying to make him a scholar won't do. If he happens to be a primitive-minded sort, then trying to make a society gentleman of him is not going to succeed. If the girl is a domestic being she will not fit the movie-queen pattern. So it goes.

It is natural for mothers to dream. It is essential that they have hopes and ambitions for their children. It is most essential, however, that their dreams be allied to these hopes and ambitions, and that all of them be related to the capacities, the gifts, the nature of the child concerned. If this is not so the child is certain to be very unhappy; and I have never known an unhappy child to be successful.

There is an old saying: "Cut your pattern to your cloth." It holds here. When the child comes, he is not according to the specifications of the dream-child. Perhaps once in a million times she is. The mother is faced with the actual child—not the handsome, fairy princeling—but the homely, howling youngster with more strength than poetry in his make-up. This is no loss. A healthy, hearty child is far more likely to be a success in life than the one who looks like a mother's dream.

Most of the people in the world are ordinary. They are born, grow into maturity, fall in love, marry and establish homes and families. They manage by hard work and sacrifice to keep a roof over their heads and educate the children. That was the pattern of your parents' lives, and of your life, if you are the usual parent. Why not, then, select a pattern for the child, rather closer to home and family than to the elect and the elite?

I have met many children—good, healthy, ordinary youngsters—making their grades in school, preparing for college, getting ready to take their places among the rest of us as ordinary citizens. I have seen them made unhappy, put off their stride by the mistaken ambitions of father or mother. Instead of being pleased by the steady progress of the children these parents were dissatisfied because they were not outstanding in some way or other.

The Number One child, the gifted child who dances, or acts, or sings, is no more likely to be outstanding twenty years from now than one of these apparently ordinary ones who are getting passing marks, taking their Regents, graduating on time, entering college and business in their course.

I have a deep regard for the ordinary child who is healthy and happy and does passing work in school. He is a GOOD child and he deserves honor, for upon his shoulders willl rest the burden of the next generation. It is he and she who will establish homes, rear children, pay the bills and support this nation. Please give him a chance. He is, in my opinion, quite as important as any other sort of child, and his pattern is a very good one for mothers to adopt.

Mr. Patri has prepared a leaflet entitled, "Convalescent Children," in which he tells parents how to help such children to entertain themselves without fatigue. Send for it, addressing your request to Mr. Angelo Patri, Child Psychology Department of this paper. Enclose a self-addressed, stamped (3-cent) envelope.

BEHIND THE SCENES IN WASHINGTON

The president, in asking congress for $522,000,000 for arms, $215,000,000 of which is to be available at once, left out any suggestion as to where the money is to come from. It has been rather calmly assumed, therefore, by many observers, that the money is to be provided by further government loans rather than by taxes.

Twenty-two years ago congress faced the problem of fabricating a financial policy for the war into which it was about to lead the country.

At that time over 200 leading economists from 48 of our foremost universities sent a petition to congress urging it "to adopt the principle of taxation rather than bond issues as the principal means of financing our country in the war upon which it has embarked."

The petition then proceeded to point out the financial difficulties into which the nation would be ensnared if borrowing rather than taxation were used to finance the war. Reading that document now it seems to be describing what actually happened rather than predicting what was to be expected.

It was signed by such distinguished men as Albert Bushnell Hart, O. M. W. Sprague, Warren Persons, Melvin T. Copeland of Harvard, Henry W. Farnham, Irving Fisher, Ray B. Westerfield of Yale, John R. Commons of Wisconsin, and many others representing almost all schools of economic thought.

Now we are embarked on another adventure in armament. We need not question here whether that enterprise is right or wrong, wise or dangerous. But assuming that we go forward with it, the same reasons still demand financing by taxation rather than by deficits. Indeed the reasons are stronger.

Whatever may be said for the armament program, one ominous peril lurks in it—that is the danger that it may be used and expanded to create prosperity. This is what has happened to Germany and Italy. Not a man is idle in either of these two dictatorships today because these nations have become a great arsenal and a vast munitions plant all financed by borrowed funds.

Already not only some business men but the president himself have called attention to this as if it were something we might well investigate to our advantage.

It would be, perhaps, the greatest crime that has ever been committed against the American people if an armament program were turned into a recovery program or any part of a recovery program. The only way this can be done is by financing that program with borrowed funds.

The only way to protect the thinking of the American people from the infection of armament economics is to insist that whatever we do in the way of national defense shall be paid for by the people by means of taxation. The time to do that is now when the program is launched. If it is not done now, obviously, it will never be done.

Recalling the Democracy Of Jackson's Day

TALL, rawboned Andrew Jackson, the "Hero of New Orleans," walked into the White House March 4, 1829, as the first people's President. As such he brought the country a new brand of political democracy.

It was reflected immediately on the day of the inauguration. Hardly had the guns boomed on that sunny morning of March 4, when a good-natured "mob" took over the executive mansion. Thousands literally swarmed into the White House.

So great was the crowd that even the stalwart old Jackson himself was forced to escape through the back door. But that was all right with his guests, who merrily went about breaking china, tracking mud across the polished floors and making speeches from plush-covered chairs. One horrified observer wrote later that he had seen spectators eating "a jelley with a gold spoon."

But the democracy of Andrew Jackson was a natural brand. Between the end of Jefferson's presidency in 1809 and Jackson's first term, the frontier had become a moving, clamorous force in national life. Jackson was a true son of this great frontier and he carried the sweep of it with him to the highest office in the land.

Moreover, he carried it back with him when he retired at the end of his second term. He was cheered like a returning conqueror when he rode home to Nashville. Jackson is shown above on a stamp of the U. S. issue of 1890, enlarged. It is purple, after a profile bust by Powers.

THREE MISSING, THINK DROWNED

of the skyways capable of carrying 20 persons.

The United States gunboat Erie, bound from the Canal zone to the New York navy yard, was about 16 miles from the scene of the wreckage when the Esso Baytown reported its finding. It hurried to the spot with a doctor. The Esso Baytown had sent an urgent wireless message saying:

"Survivors are bad off. If you can't send doctor tonight will start for Cape Henry."

"Will send doctor right away," the Erie replied.

The gunboat turned on powerful searchlights to aid its search for the rescue ship.

Before the survivors were picked up the tanker Esso Baytown had reported to the coast guard that it had sighted the wreckage of the stricken flying boat and had lowered a lifeboat to go to the rescue of the plane.

The message from the Esso Baytown received by the coast guard here was:

"Sighted wreckage of plane. Lowered lifeboat. They are coming back now. Don't know how many they got. Will call later."

The message from the tanker was received by the coast guard communications station here at 11:25 p.m., eastern standard time.

The Cavalier, luxury liner of the British Imperial Airways with eight passengers and five crew members aboard had been missing more than 10 hours since it was forced by heavy icing to land at sea, approximately 322 miles southeast of Cape May, N. J.

Its last word on the wireless waves at 1:13 p.m., eastern standard time was simply: "Sinking."

A later message from the Esso Baytown said:

"We have some survivors and need a doctor."

In just a moment, the U. S. S. Erie, which was nearby, interrupted to say: "We have a doctor."

The coast guard said the next message it received was from the Esso Baytown to the Erie:

"Survivors unable to be transferred. Would like doctor to come aboard."

Coast guard reported the two ships were hunting one another by means of powerful searchlights.

On a scheduled run over the 780 miles of open ocean between the Long Island base of Port Washington and Darrell's island at Hamilton, Bermuda, the Cavalier carried emergency provisions and life preservers.

One steamer, the City of Rayville, radioed that she was only eight miles from the reported position of the Cavalier less than an hour after the airplane's crew advised the Pan-American Airways office here that the plane was doomed.

Within an hour after the first SOS was received, some 15 surface ships and a half dozen planes were speeding to the rescue. The weather was reported stormy.

One United States coast guard plane which set out from Floyd Bennett field, New York, was forced to return after 180 miles of flying due to fuel shortage caused by bucking hard winds.

It was estimated that the Cavalier was about 385 miles from Bermuda when its trouble developed.

The passengers aboard were listed as: Mrs. George Ingham, Hamilton, Bermuda; Mrs. Edna Watson, Bermuda; Mr. and Mrs. Donald Miller, Lincoln, Neb.; Charles Talbot, Brookline, Mass.; Mr. and Mrs. J. Gordon Noakes, of Malba, N. Y., and Miss Nellie Smith, of Pembroke, Bermuda.

Members of the crew: M. R. Alderson, captain; Neil Richardson, first officer; Patrick Chapman, radio officer; David Williams, steward, and Robert Spence, steward.

A report from Pan-American Airways that a garbled message from the Imperial Airways base in Bermuda apparently indicated an unnamed vessel had picked up the survivors evoked the statement at Hamilton that no such message had been sent.

Carburetor icing, a common cause of trouble on domestic airlines before a heating mechanism was invented, quickly renders motors useless.

The Cavalier was designed to fly on any two of its four motors, which are sunk into nacelles in the huge wing. The hull of the flying boat, swung beneath the wing, is of aluminum alloy, and was intended to withstand considerable buffeting in bad weather landings.

Surface ships and aircraft were quick to respond to the SOS.

Bad weather conditions and darkness, which fell at 4:45 p.m., were expected to make the task of rescue difficult, however.

Late in the day Pan-American was advised that one of the army air corps' "flying fortresses," a four-motored land machine with a long cruising range, had taken off from Langley field, Va., with flares and other emergency equipment to drop to survivors.

Surface craft which turned from the courses to give aid included the Esso Baytown, the coast guard cutters Mendota, Champlain and Icarus, the S. S. Lillian, the General Lee, the tanker Virginia Sinclair, two Canadian destroyers, the British cruiser Orion, and Vincent Astor's yacht Nourmahal, with Astor aboard.

Aircraft enlisted in the search, besides the army machine, included the Pan-American airways "Bermuda Clipper," which shared radio and port facilities with the Cavalier on the Bermuda run, and two coast guard planes from Floyd Bennett field.

Pan-American airways divided the four wireless bands used by the Cavalier between its Port Washington station and Imperial's station in Bermuda for stand-by service.

The Cavalier, a Short Brothers, British-Built flying boat, inaugurated the Bermuda service with Pan-America's "Bermuda Clipper," in June, 1937. Usually each service flew two round trips a week.

Twenty minutes before communication with the Cavalier was cut off the plane radioed:

"All engines failing through ice. Altitude 1,500 feet. Forced landing in few minutes."

That came at 12:50 p.m.

The complete log of calls between Port Washington and the plane follows:

10:38 a.m.—Take off on time at Port Washington.

10:42 a.m.—Off the water.

12:23 p.m.—Cavalier radioed: "Running into bad weather. May have to land."

12:50 p.m.—Port Washington called the Cavalier. There was no answer.

12:53 p.m.—Port Washington called the Cavalier. No answer.

12:55 p.m.—Port Washintgon called the Cavalier. No answer.

12:57 p.m.—Cavalier radioed: "SOS."

12:58 p.m.—Port Washington called the Cavalier.

12:59 p.m.—Cavalier radioed: "All engines failing through ice. Altitude 1,500 feet. Forced landing in few minutes."

1:07 p.m.—Cavalier radioed: "Still up. Have two motors going. Trying to get other started."

1:08 p.m.—Cavalier radioed "have just sent distress on 500 kilocycles."

1:09 p.m.—Port Washington called. No answer.

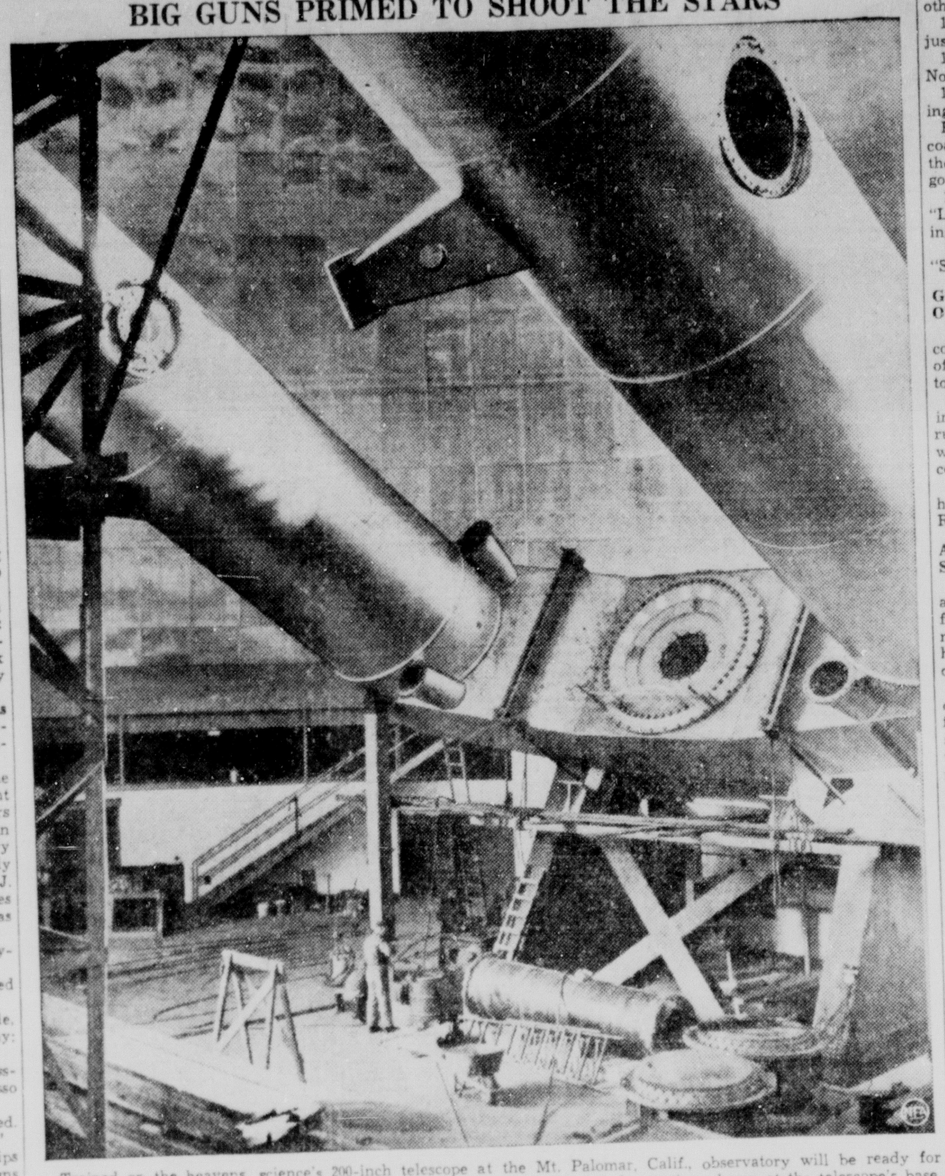

1:11 p.m.—Cavalier radioed: "Landing now."

Port Washington then asked the coast guard to go out and also ordered the Bermuda Clipper to stand by to go off.

1:12 p.m.—The Cavalier radioed: "Landed O.K. Switch is off. Standing by."

1:13 p.m.—The Cavalier radioed: "Sinking."

BIG GUNS PRIMED TO SHOOT THE STARS

GINGER ROGERS KEPT OFF BY BAD COLD

NEW YORK, Jan. 21.—(AP)—A bad cold kept Ginger Rogers, screen star, off the flying boat Cavalier when it took off for Bermuda today.

Four days ago she considered flying to Bermuda this morning, and rumor said she was on the plane when word that it was in trouble was received.

Friends said tonight a severe cold had led her to cancel her plans. Miss Rogers is visiting in New York.

AIR CORPS JOINS SEARCH FOR PLANE

WASHINGTON, Jan. 21.—(AP)—The army air corps joined in the search for the missing airliner Cavalier tonight by sending out to sea one of its huge bombers and holding a second on the line for a quick take-off.

One of the "Flying Fortresses" took off late in the day with a load of flares and life rafts to be dropped to survivors. The four-motored plane, with a cruising speed in excess of 200 miles an hour, was expected to reach the position given by the Cavalier early in the evening.

Air corps officials said if the missing plane or her survivors were located from the air, the second bomber would fly to the scene and, circling continuously above the spot, continue to drop flares until surface craft arrived to pick up survivors.

Should the Cavalier still be missing at daybreak tomorrow, it was said, a general search by army planes would be launched.

This search would be operated in the same tactical procedure used in spotting the approach of an enemy from off-shore, with many planes spreading out to comb the sea, air corps officials said.

ADMINISTRATION SUFFERS DEFEAT

that the $725,000,000 appropriation would be approved. He had predicted that the appropriation committee would have "the whey beaten out of it" on the senate floor in seeking to retain such a sum.

Republicans generally were expected to go along with their appropriations committee members in supporting the $725,000,000 allotment.

Under relief measure approved by the committee today, the WPA could not dismiss more than 150,000 of its 3,000,000 workers during the months of February and March. Existing relief funds will be exhausted February 7 and the new appropriation was asked to operate the WPA until June 30.

Those favoring an $875,000,000 allotment were Senators McKellar of Tennessee, Hayden of Arizona, Thomas of Oklahoma, Overton of Louisiana, O'Mahoney of Wyoming, Green of Rhode Island and Maloney of Connecticut, all Democrats.

McKellar, ranking committee member and an administration stalwart, made an unsuccessful motion to hoist the appropriation to $875,000,000.

His move precipitated a vigorous fight. Though the committee session was closed, the sounds of shouted argument and table-pounding could be heard in nearby corridors.

The committee wiped out a provision in the house bill limiting sectional differentials in WPA wage rates to 25 per cent, but approved a provision preventing WPA employes from being blanketed into civil service.

A new restriction was inserted preventing the use of relief funds for the construction of any mills or factories which would make articles to be sold in competition with private industry.

MACHINE SOLVES 6-MONTH PUZZLES IN TWO MINUTES

PASADENA, Calif.—(AP)—Two scientists here have just completed a machine that will perform in less than two minutes calculations that would take a mathematician from six months to several years to do.

It's photo-electric eye examines 100,000 samples of movie film to determine the probability of graininess.

It could be used to determine how often a dice player could throw a seven, or a bridge player would draw the perfect hand of 13 spades. It might even work out a system to "break the bank at Monte Carlo."

But Dr. Alexander Goetz and W. O. Gould, California Institute of Technology physicists, have little scientific interest in what their machine would do to help players of games. They are interested in what the machine will do toward developing a film with silver grains distributed so evenly it would be possible to photograph a whole library on film which could be carried in a coat pocket.

"Already," said Dr. Goetz, "the reproduction of a book of 300 pages at a rate of one page per frame of thirty-five-millimeter motion picture film requires only 20 feet.

"If the photographic image were of continuous nature, 10,000 pages could be placed in one film frame."

The microscope plays an important part in the probability machine, Dr. Goetz said, pointing out that it takes 10,000 particles of silver on a photographic film to form the dot over an "i" as printed on a newspaper page.

"The silver particles may seem evenly distributed, but under the microscope they are shown to be grouped in spots," he said. "Our task is to find whether these groupings are accidental or from cause."

The machine was developed at the request of a film manufacturer with a hope of improving the film. Dr. Goetz foresees the possibility of its use in the quick handling of all manner of statistics.

RUPPERT ESTATE MAY STAY INTACT per cent could be taken by the federal and state governments and on the $40,000,000 basis the estate might be reduced to $16,000,000.

If the total taxable estate, on the other hand, should reach the $70,000,000 estimated by some, federal and state taxes could take all but about $12,000,000. A treasury official estimated the government could collect $32,000,000 of the first $50,000,000 net and 70 per cent of all over that.

The New York state inheritance laws provide for a tax of 20 per cent of the amount by which the net estate exceeds $10,100,000 after comparatively small exemptions.

Clark explained that federal law permits a spreading of payments over a 10-year period and that he believed revenues from the Ruppert enterprises could be managed so this could be accomplished without liquidation.

The New York state law allows a 5 per cent reduction if the tax is paid within a year and the trustees were hopeful that could be done with resultant substantial savings.

Full control of the colonel's interest in the brewery, the Arctic Hygiea Ice company and real estate holdings, as well as the New York Yankees baseball club in which his ownership was virtually absolute, was given to the trustees. The will made it evident the Yankees were to be protected at any sacrifice and that the brewery holdings be maintained if at all possible.

The colonel sought to set up the kind of trust that would not become lifeless or frozen during the passage of the years and at the same time would perpetuate the baseball club.

SLAYING VICTIM SUSPECTED HERE

Monday night, but the person or persons failed to gain entrance to the building located at 212 North Second street, according to a police report.

On the night of the grocery robbery here, two other places were also entered, Rizzo's pharmacy near the grocery and the Monroe Steam laundry. The Household Supply company, 109 North Fourth street, was burglarized early Monday night, about the same time the attempt to burglarize the Motor Vehicle bureau took place, and attempts to enter three other local business houses were also made on the same night, according to police.

The nitroglycerine found beneath the porch of Wells' residence "was enough to blow up several banks," and caps and fuses were also found. Such paraphernalia was used to shatter the Eureka Grocery store's safe.

Two state police officers, armed with shotguns, were on guard at the Motor Vehicle bureau here last night in accordance with an order issued by General Louis F. Guerre, state police head, that all automobile license bureaus in the state be protected.

MAN KILLED WHILE RESISTING ARREST

SHREVEPORT, La., Jan. 21.—(AP)—A man shot and killed here today in resisting arrest was identified by Orvall Richards of the Shreveport police fingerprint department as Harry A. Wells, wanted in Gadsden, Ala., on a payroll robbery charge.

Wells was shot through the heart region at his rooming house by Police Detective Tom Cardwell. Cardwell said he fired after Wells, a suspect in the $6,121 robbery of the state motor vehicle license bureau here yesterday, refused to surrender and tried to flee.

The body of Wells lying in the morgue was identified by A. B. Killgore, manager of the bureau and J. T. Tinnin, his assistant, as that of the man who held them up and robbed the bureau.

Of the money taken, $6,000 was in checks and only $121 in cash. A search of the premises, Police Lieutenant C. E. Kent reported, revealed an amount of silver money hidden in a jar in the room and in a tin box under the house and a quantity of nitroglycerine sufficient "to blow up several banks."

As an aftermath of the bureau robbery, General Louis F. Guerre, head of the state police force, assigned two men with shotguns to each of the branch offices of the auto license bureau.

The branches are located at New Orleans, Shreveport, Baton Rouge, Monroe, Alexandria and Lake Charles.

leaders with destroying the autonomy of the U. A. W.

The Martin-controlled board remnant, by appointing Loren Houser as acting secretary-treasurer to replace the "suspended" George F. Addes last night, presented U. A. W. locals, for the second time in a year, with the problem of where to send per capita tax payments due the international union.

When Addes was ousted in the Martin "purge" last summer, many local unions continued to send the international tax money to him instead of the man Martin named to act as treasurer. Addes subsequently was reinstated.

International union funds were "frozen" in a Detroit bank, unavailable to either faction although Martin and his attorney held a conference today with bank officials. The anti-Martin group notified the bank not to honor requests of the impeached president.

motorcycles. He had brought a motorcycle with him from Dallas."

After Gentry had recognized the picture of Duvall the latter disappeared from Lake Charles, Roden said, but was quickly traced to the farm home of Enos Aycock at Holloway Prairie where the arrest was made.

"Duvall told Aycock when he rented a room from him last October that he had inherited money from an aunt," Roden said. "He told the farmer he had to leave home because relatives were trying to get the money away from him. When we found the money in his belt, he said he had 'found' it."

Roden said that when Duvall awoke to look into the police pistols he merely said "you've got me, so what's the use of talking." The officers found beside the bed an automatic pistol and a detective story magazine which the man apparently had been reading before he went to sleep, Roden said.

The state police said Duvall, neither denying nor admitting the charges against him, would be turned over to the F. B. I.

On the diplomatic front, the appointment of Captain Fritz Wiedemann, Hitler's personal adjutant and World war company commander, as consul general at San Francisco was announced officially.

Official sources said the appointment had no political significance. They said Wiedemann was going to California "on his own wish"—a reward for his services to Germany.

Wiedemann will replace Baron Manfred von Killinger who was assigned to special duties in the foreign office. He had been recalled in December to report on an explosion which rocked the Nazi freighter Vancouver in Oakland estuary November 3.

(Five of the crew were injured and the freighter was beached. Von Killinger declared at the time that the blast was "an act of criminal sabotage.")

Wiedemann's assignment surprised diplomatic quarters because he had acquired a considerable reputation as a confidential aide to Hitler, particularly on delicate diplomatic missions.

But responsible quarters poohpoohed suggestions of any deep political significance in his assignment to the consular post or that he was being sent primarily on a propaganda mission.

miles from the capital, was in the hands of the government garrison.

Insurgent military headquarters conceded there still was strong resistance in the town, which lies on a main highway leading to Barcelona from the west.

Despite the reversal at Igualada, however, the insurgent war machine bore down on Barcelona from the south along the Mediterranean coast, and in the capital itself brigades of workers hastily erected barricades for a house-to-house-defenses in the event the lines beyond the city fail to hold.

Reports to the border said artillery batteries were being installed at Barcelona's gates and sandbag fortifications within the city.

(A Lerida dispatch said the insurgent government, anticipating capture of the capital, ordered establishment of governmental machinery to take over the city.

(The United States naval attache in Paris, Captain Francis G. Cogswell, left for Barcelona accompanied by an assistant also familiar with the Spanish situation. The United States cruiser Omaha was at Villefranca, on the French Riviera, 300 miles from Barcelona, in a position to rush to the Spanish coast to remove United States citizens in an emergency. The Paris embassy listed about 100 persons entitled to aid, including about 70 Puerto Ricans and Filipinos.)

A Moroccan corps led by the white-haired veteran General Juan Yague pushed beyond Vendrell on the Mediterranean coast to a point within 28 miles of Barcelona.

Insurgent dispatches said General Yague's troops crossed the Barcelona provincial line, about five miles from Vendrell, occupied the villages of Arbos and Clariana, and reached the bank of the River Foix, near the boundary.

Government forces were reported to have fallen back to Villanueva y Geltru, 25 miles below Barcelona.

The government's main defense line was believed to have been reformed from Villanueva northward to Igualada. Outcome of the battle for Igualada, military observers believed, will decide whether the government armies, which have been steadily falling back, have enough punch left to slow down the insurgent drive.

Ticket booths have been constructed in the lobbies of the Paramount and Capitol theaters and students from B. M. I. have volunteered to conduct the advance sale from these booths, it was announced.

Announcements of the campaign are being made from the theaters and starting today, speakers will explain the drive to the public in talks over radio station KMLB. Announcements also will be made at local churches today, it was said.

Mr. Prophit pointed out that the campaign is non-sectarian and that funds derived from the campaign would be used to assist refugees of all religions.

"Never before in recorded history has humanity witnessed such mass persecution of innocent persons," Mr. Prophit said, "nor has there ever been such a need for practical relief as now presented in the utter helplessness of refugees from Germany, Austria and central Europe, be they Protestant, Catholic or Jew. The theaters participating in this drive for practical relief are leaving no stone unturned to make their 'Campaign for Humanity' most successful in all theaters. Special tickets for the benefit shows are on sale in the lobbies of the theaters and have also been distributed to various committees for sale to the public who, it is expected, will support this cause to the fullest."

bor department conciliator, met in New York with representatives of the rival camps.

Paul N. Turner, federation attorney, said there were "no developments." Nor was there any indication of an early joint conference.

A spokesman for the "Four-A" advertisers said the union's demands would mean that an actor on a 15-minute show would get approximately $185 a week regardless of how minor his part.

The $185 would comprise the minimum of $25 for 15 minutes, five or six days a week, plus rehearsal fees. A few actors participate in as many as five shows a day, which, through the union scale, would bring their pay to around $1,000 a week.

J. G. Sample, president of the Blackett-Sample-Hummert Advertising agency, one of the biggest buyers of radio time, after conferring with union officials in Chicago, said:

"I explained our position to union representatives and I am certain there is no danger of any immediate strike."

The major radio networks, in case of a strike, planned to fill in the time with sustaining (non-commercial) programs, with which the union members have no quarrel.

The time of the proposed strike has not been set. Usual union procedure is for members to authorize a strike, leaving the date to executives.

The A. F. R. A. asked minimums of $15 for a 15-minute broadcast, $25 for 30 minutes, and $35 for 60 minutes—plus $6 an hour for rehearsals.

The "Four-A" counter offer proposed $15, $20, and $25 for each respective period, with no compensation for rehearsals of two, three or four hours for each period.

Union officials immediately termed the counter proposal "fantastically low." They said the strike, it called, would silence almost every major program on the national networks.

Frank Hummert, vice-president of the Blackett-Sample-Hummert Advertising Agency in New York, a large scale buyer of radio time, said he favored a higher scale than the one proposed by the "Four-A's," pointing out that his firm pays actors not less than $59.37 per week in contrast to the $50 minimum for five appearances in 15-minute serials proposed by the advertising associations.

Fertilizer experts who used to think nitrogen, phosphorous, potash and lime were the only artificial plant foods crops needed now include many minor elements such as boron, copper, manganese and the like.

NEW CURRANT APPROVED

GENEVA, N. Y.—(AP)—The New York state agricultural experiment station has recommended a new variety of currant, the "red lake," for eastern fruit growers to try. It was introduced at the University of Minnesota. Professor G. L. Slate of the station staff said the currant was the "first worthwhile variety" introduced since 1906.

We Have Excellent Schools . . .

EDUCATIONALLY, Monroe, West Monroe and Ouachita Parish stand among the foremost. They have the facilities—fine, modern educational plants. And more important than that, their schools have competent faculties—teachers capable of giving the best instruction available anywhere.

First among the schools of the two cities and the parish is Northeast Center of Louisiana State University, a state-supported junior college located in Monroe.

This institution not only enables young men and young women of Monroe, West Monroe and Ouachita Parish to obtain two years of higher education at home, but brings students here from elsewhere, particularly Northeast Louisiana.

These latter students, while studying here, become acquainted with Monroe, West Monroe and Ouachita Parish. And when they return home, they pass on to others information about the cities and the parish they have gained through their contacts and through observation.

But that is digressing a bit. Let's take a look at the arrangements for secondary education.

Monroe and West Monroe are served by three high schools located in the former city. Two are public, Neville and Ouachita Parish; the third, St. Matthew's Parochial, denominational.

Ouachita Parish is a consolidated high school that serves not only Monroe and West Monroe, but a large portion of the parish. The remainder is served by Calhoun High in Calhoun and Okaloosa High in the Okaloosa community.

Ouachita Parish, Okaloosa and Calhoun High Schools are units of the educational system operated by the Ouachita Parish School Board. In Monroe, which has its own school system, the parish board maintains, besides the high school, Ouachita Parish Grammar School. Four more of its elementary units—Crosley, Millsaps, Mitchell and Ransom—are located in West Monroe. Other elementary units are conveniently scattered throughout the parish.

Neville High and five elementary schools are maintained in Monroe by the City School Board. The elementary units, conveniently located in various sections of the city, are Central Grammar, Barkdull Faulk, Georgia Tucker, Lida Benton and Sherrouse.

St. Matthew's Parochial School, which is supported by the congregation of St. Matthew's Catholic church, has elementary as well as high school classes.

Monroe, West Monroe and Ouachita Parish have always enjoyed a high standard of education—a standard that has kept pace with advancements in educational methods as well as the growth of the cities and the parish. That's because Monroe, West Monroe and Ouachita Parish have been liberal in their support of education. Consequently, the children of the two communities and the parish have never lacked educational advantages and opportunities.

Miss Rachael Matzner of Meridian, Miss., a great favorite in this city, where her visits with her sister, Mrs. Morris Haas, are always welcomed by friends. Miss Matzner's recent visit was the occasion for numerous social courtesies planned by friends in her honor. Top left. Mrs. William Harper and her three lovely daughters (reading from left to right): Billie, Joy and Vivian. They are seen in their handsome new home on Island drive. Top right. Miss Maud S. Gill, charming member of the college set, whose high scholastic standing at Louisiana State university, has won recognition as an honor student. Lower oval. Several Affairs Given During Past Week In Honor Of Out-Of-Town Guests

Miss Hailey Feted In Home Of Mrs. Hinkle

Mrs. White Entertains For Mother; Mrs. Trousdale And Mrs. Gaston Are Among Hostesses

Monroe hostesses are table decoration conscious these days. Flowers arranged in dramatic manner play a most important part in appointments of coffee tables, tea tables, luncheon and dinner tables.

Claiming prominence among the flower adorned tables last week was the one presided over by Mrs. Henry Hinkle, who entertained with a coffee hour at her plantation home complimentary to Miss Dorothy Hailey of New Orleans. Yellow tulips, purple hyacinths, pink roses and white narcissi mingling together in a low, flaring crystal bowl, breathed a message of approaching springtime.

Mrs. J. Noble White's coffee table on Friday morning was adorned with yellow daisies and purple anemone encircled with purple tapers, when she welcomed a few intimates at her home in Edgewater Gardens complimentary to her mother, Mrs. H. W. Virgin of Chicago. Sandwiches cut in fascinating shapes and a variety of pastries were served on silver trays.

Mrs. Briscoe Trousdale and Mrs. Nathan Gaston, who are entertaining with a series of afternoon tea in the Gaston home, are using fragrant spring blossoms and pink camellias for the floral adornment of their beautifully appointed table.

Presiding graciously over the silver urns last week were Mrs. Louis Hullum, Mrs. James C. Liner and Mrs. Briscoe Trousdale, Sr.

Other events of interest crowding last week's calendar was Mrs. Edward Harper's supper-bridge complimenting Mrs. W. M. Chaddick of Piano, Tex.

Mrs. Harper employed a Valentine motif in the flowers, crimson carnations, adorning her supper table. The delicious little gateaux served with the demi-tasse resembled old fashioned Valentines inscribed with the name of each guest.

Mrs. Harper's gift for remembrance to Mrs. Chaddick was a handsome linen luncheon set.

Seated at the supper table were: Mrs. Chaddick, Miss Maible Hood, Mrs. W. C. Feazel, Mrs. J. H. Rinehart, Mrs. Clyde Mitchell, Mrs. Fay Heard, Mrs. Otto Miller, Mrs. Clifton Mize, Mrs. W. S. Kendall, Mrs. Roy Lee, Mrs. Louis Rinehart, Mrs. Ruth Poimbeouf, Mrs. Mamie Boardman.

Mrs. Chaddick was again complimented when Mrs. Fay Heard entertained at bingo and placed beautiful camellias in her reception suite for a decorative note.

Each winning player was presented with a lovely gift wrapped in pastel tinted tissue.

A variety of delicious confections was served during the evening to: Mrs. Chaddick, Mrs. Clyde Mitchell, Mrs. Effie Allen, Mrs. Johnnie Smith Elbert, Miss Maible Hood, Mrs. Edward Harper, Jr., Mrs. W. C. Feazel, Miss Florence Powers, Mrs. Millie Michael, Miss Harriet Hirsch, Miss Alice Bauer.

Rev. And Mrs. Doss To Be Honor Guests

Members of the congregation of the First Methodist church Wednesday night will entertain at a reception honoring Rev. and Mrs. W. L. Doss in the home of Rev. and Mrs. W. C. Scott.

Rev. Doss, who is the presiding elder of the Monroe district, recently moved to Monroe from Lake Charles, where he was pastor of the First Methodist church. He and Mrs. Doss are making their home at 501 Hilton street.

Mrs. John Noe accompanied by her daughter, Mrs. Thomas Bradley of Louisville, Ky., who have been the guests of Mrs. Noe's son, Mr. James A. Noe and Mrs. Noe, since the early part of December will leave on Monday for Orlando, Fla., where they will remain until the first of April.

Local Society Busy As Winter Deepens

Numerous Charming Affairs Given; Out-Of-Town Visitors Given Much Attention

People have rather got in the habit of saying that Monroe is socially dead, but we really aren't. With the proper incentive the town shakes itself out of its lethargy, puts on party clothes and sallies forth ready to enjoy whatever the gods have to offer in the way of entertainment.

Numerous charming affairs punctuated last week's calendar. Flora Potts' home was fairly bursting with hospitality on Thursday night when she trotted out the best napery and the shining silver for members of the Married People's Card club who always enjoy a bounteous supper before they settle down to an evening of cards. For thirty years or more members of this club have been meeting regularly. The ranks are thinning as many members have passed on since the good old days when sumptuous dinners were served and everything was done on a grand scale. Veritable feasts were served in the old days and the custom still continues but on a less elaborate scale. Rich, heavy food is no longer considered chic at social affairs of this kind so the elaborate dinners have given place to gay little supper parties followed by cards. The traditional hospitality has not changed however—the charming old southern mode of entertaining still continues in Monroe's old homes where friends meet year after year and do their bit toward keeping alive the spark from the warm fires of yesterday.

Comparisons are always odious but Mrs. Henry Turish, who just arrived in the city from the land of snow and ice--Duluth—couldn't help comparing the camellias and golden forsythia gracing Flora Potts' home Thursday night, with the wintry blasts and gardens buried under a mantle of snow in her own home town. Mrs. Turish, who is visiting Kitty Cummings, came south to avoid the February blizzards. She and Kitty will spend their days motoring south to garden festivals and across the Mississippi to Natchez for the Garden Pilgrimage in March.

Monroe people think nothing of motoring here and there to distant points so that they might enjoy the things that enrich their lives. Last Sunday they went to Shreveport for the opening of the new art museum and later in the week motored over for the Ballet Russe. They motored to Lafayette for the camellia festival and to New Orleans for the Mardi Gras balls.

Mildred and Underwood Fourmy stepped into a land of pure enchantment when they attended the Krewe of Eros ball. It was a glittering spectacle reminiscent of the Russian court during the reign of Peter III. Mildred had several official call-outs and rubbed elbows with the queen of Eros and members of her court who were arrayed in splendiferous gowns of jewel studded velvets with capes of ermine.

How can Monroe be called socially dead when hostesses like Adrienne Gaston and Frances Trousdale welcome friends from time to time during the tea hour in the charming little home occupied by Nathan and Adrienne Gaston? A series of teas is bringing the clan together, around a flower-banked table laden with fascinating little confections and where fragrant orange pekoe is poured from handsome silver urns by Bernice Liner and Eva Trousdale.

Monroe's new homes are fast becoming social centers. There was a sound of revelry by night at the Judge Harper's handsome new home on Island drive. The first of a series of house warmings took place Thursday night when supper and cards brought congenials together around the flaming logs in the fireplace which for comfort and charm is the envy of every home-loving heart. Their sub-deb daughters, Vivian, Joy and Billie, golden haired girls in party frocks, trained by their mother in the art of social graces, were flitting around among the guests offering courtesies.

Styles may come and styles may go; feminine fashions revolve around their regular styles, but King Horse goes on forever. The pounding of hoofs on the village turf grows louder as saddle horses continue to grow in number. The desire to own mounts of their own increases among those who enjoy a daily canter. We observed Dr. John Snelling trying out a new horse the other day and it must have measured up to standard as he now owns it and can be seen every evening cantering along the grass covered paths in the vicinity of the old Lakeside Country club.

Jose Isaacman is another who likes to hear hoofs pounding on unsequestered paths. He owns a beautiful horse and intends to take up riding as a daily form of exercise.

Ed and Louise Seymour are as buoyant as a summer cloud these days—and no wonder, they have engaged passage on the steamer Rotterdam for Havana during the month of March. They will travel with the Louisiana bankers who have chartered the boat for their annual spring convention.

From the mouths of babes words of wisdom often fall. One day last week Ralph King, Jr., was having luncheon with a young friend whose parents cautioned him time and time again not to do this and not to do that. Ralph, weary of hearing his little friend corrected, placed his napkin on the table and excused himself, saying, "I am going home where I can eat in peace."

The gypsy blood runs rampant again and Freneau and Floy Surguine, home only a few months from an adventurous life in Africa, will be off for their new home in Orlando, Fla., where they have just purchased an orange grove. Motoring leisurely around Florida during the holidays they discovered the home they had dreamed of owning ever since their marriage. It is situated on Bass lake, four miles Atlantic and 90 miles from the gulf. The house, now being remodeled to suit their needs, is surrounded by orange groves, the fruit for this season not yet being harvested. Freneau and Floy returned to Monroe but Freneau, as soon as he could wind up business affairs was off again getting things in readiness for permanent occupancy. He immediately joined the yacht club, just a half mile from his home, so that he could indulge himself to his heart's content in his favorite sport—sailing. The home leads down to a glistening white sand beach where Freneau, Floy and daughter Mysie expect to spend many happy hours. It all reads like a fairy story but it is a lovely reality—a dream come true for two people who have traveled the world over and are now facing an idyllic existence among sunlit orange groves sloping down to the water's edge.

Miss Cole Weds In Lake Charles

Miss Caroline Virginia Cole of Lake Charles has many friends in this city where she visited on numerous occasions in the home of Mrs. Carrick B. White, who will be interested in the account of her marriage appearing in the Lake Charles American Press as follows:

"Miss Caroline Virginia Cole, lovely daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. Phelps Cole, became the bride of Mr. Gilbert H. Graham. The wedding was solemnized January 14 at the First Methodist Episcopal church, South, the Rev. H. L. Johns, pastor of the church, performing the ceremony before a gathering of friends and relatives.

"A lovely setting for the service was fashioned with southern smilax, gladioli and azaleas.

Miss Bertha Moss, organist, and Francis Leveque, soloist, gave the wedding music. As a preliminary number Miss Moss played 'Sweet Mystery of Life,' and accompanied Mr. Leveque, who sang, 'I Love You Truly.' 'Wedding March' from Lohengrin, by Wagner, was the processional and Mendelssohn's 'Wedding March' was the recessional. During the ceremony 'Evening Star' by Wagner was rendered softly.

"The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, had as her only attendant, Miss Katheryne White, of Monroe. The bridegroom had as his best man, Robert L. Knox. The ushers were Phelps Cole, Jr., a brother of the bride, and Harry Chavanne.

"The bride's costume was a beautiful spring model in orchid and grape, the shades being repeated in her accessories. She carried an arm bouquet of valley lilies, pink rosebuds and maidenhair fern and she wore her paternal grandmother's locket and bracelet.

"Miss White was gowned in azalea crepe with which she wore trotter blue accessories and carried a colonial bouquet of pink rosebuds, valley-lilies and sweetpeas. The bride's mother wore a costume of navy and dusty pink sheer and a corsage of sweetpeas and baby breath. The bridegroom's mother was gowned in navy sheer and she wore a corsage of sweetpeas and baby breath.

"A reception at the home of the bride's parents followed the ceremony at the church. Seasonal flowers were used in the reception rooms. The bride's table was appointed in green, white and silver and set in crystal and silver. The three-tiered wedding cake was decorated in white and silver and a beautiful centerpiece was formed of white hyacinths and maidenhair fern. White tapers burned in green holders.

"Guests were received by Mrs. E. Phelps Cole and Mrs. Laura Graham, and Miss Alice Snodgrass and Miss Esther Graham, the bridegroom's sister, presided at the bridal table.

"The bride was graduated from Soldan High school in St. Louis, Mo., attended Washington university art school for two years and studied art under Kadel in Dallas, Tex.

"Mr. Graham attended the University of Missouri in Columbia for three years and received his degree in law at Louisiana State university. He is a member of Alpha Sigma Phi fraternity. He is engaged in the practice of his profession in Lake Charles.

"Mr. and Mrs. Graham are spending their honeymoon in Mexico. The bride traveled in a smart black tailored costume, black hat with cerise trim and black accessories. When they return they will be at home at 809 Clarence street."

Junior Gavel Holds Meeting

Mrs. C. O. Boyce, assisted by her mother, Mrs. John Sholars, entertained members of the Junior Gavel club Thursday afternoon at her home on Hudson Lane.

Mrs. H. L. Deloney, president, called the meeting to order. In the absence of Mrs. George F. Kidwell, secretary, the roll was called and the minutes read by Mrs. E. T. Heard, Jr. During the business session an extensive social service program was planned. Shasta daisy was chosen for the club's flower and yellow and white were selected for the club colors; the motto: "Growth Is Only Evidence of Life" was accepted.

Study topic for the afternoon was the second in a series of lessons on practical English and effective speech, presented by Mrs. Heard.

Guest speaker for the occasion was Mrs. A. D. Tisdale, president of the Fifth district of the Louisiana Federation of Women's clubs. Mrs. Tisdale presented to the members a most interesting talk on club work as a whole, showing the opportunities open to a well organized club in its community. "In order to keep American ideals first in the minds of our home and community," said the speaker, "We must not separate the two." In concluding her talk, Mrs. Tisdale read the "Ideal Club Woman" by Bonnie Dean, which sets up a high standard by which activities may be gauged.

During the social hour the members enjoyed a beautiful piano selection rendered by Mrs. L. A. Duffee. Delicious refreshments were served to the following members and their guests: Mrs. Olan Black, Mrs. H. L. Deloney, Mrs. E. T. Heard, Jr., Mrs. L. A. Duffee, Miss Celest Hall, guest from Greenwood, Miss., Mrs. G. V. McCaskill, Jr., Mrs. John Naylor, Mrs. Ray Rhymes, Mrs. Merrell Williams and Mrs. A. D. Tisdale, guest speaker.

When Mrs. J. J. Potts entertained members of the Married People's Card club at her home last Thursday night she invited them to the dining room, where the linen covered, silver appointed table, centrally adorned with superb pink camellias, was graced with an immense silver tray holding a suckling pig, roasted to a golden brown and with a red apple in its mouth.

All the succulent accessories were served with the piece de resistance and later for a variety of confections were served with the demi tasse.

Cards occupied the remainder of the evening, climaxing in the presentation of handsome pottery urns to Mrs. L. Mobley, Mrs. Albert Horuff, Mr. L. B. Ferguson and Mr. G. P. Stubbs, for high scores.

Central Grammar

The Central Grammar school P.-T. A. met in the school auditorium Wednesday at 3 p.m., with the president, Mrs. E. G. Courtney, presiding. The guest speaker was Miss Marjorie Oliver, elementary supervisor for the city schools. She took for her subject, "Visual Education."

"Visual education," she said, "progresses from the abstract to the concrete." She illustrated with a blackboard diagram, stressing forms of the aids to visual education that are now available.

She said that information received through the eye is the easier method of education and that while it is a pleasure and joy to the pupil, it is also more lasting than knowledge acquired by older methods. An astonishing degree of efficiency is attained through the process of visual education and use of the devices employed in this modern method of instruction, she said.

A dance program was rendered by pupils of the first grade, taught by Miss Kate Henry. Miss Maude Davis' sixth grade pupils presented a march and dance number.

The treasurer's report was given by Miss Eleona Brinsmade. Mrs. Eulalia McCoy gave a detailed account of donations and expenditures for welfare work.

A new year's greeting from the national P.-T. A. president was read by Mrs. Courtney.

Plans for raising money for the P.-T. A. state meeting were discussed, and a bingo party was advocated.

Miss Rose Taylor resigned as chairman of the publicity committee.

Sherrouse

An instructive program was presented to the Sherrouse P.-T. A. group by Mrs. Arch Parker, the safety chairman.

The safety pledge was read and approved. A true and false test on home and public safety was presented by Mrs. C. C. Lindley. These questions were checked and compared. This led to an open discussion which proved very beneficial to the group.

Through the courtesy of two junior police, Richard Touchstone and James Spillars, from Barkdull Faulk school, a safety film on bicycle riding was given.

Mrs. C. B. Fluitt gave a reading, "Ten Little Autos," and Mrs. Stevens read the president's message. A short business session followed with Mrs. E. J. Brown presiding. Reports were given from each committee. Mrs. W. Stevens, membership chairman, reported a membership drive to start February 1. She reported 91 members with a possibility of a few more.

A vote of thanks was extended to the hospitality committee, Mrs. C. L. Dillingham, Mrs. Guy DuPriest, Mrs. Harold Riggs, Mrs. John Valhoun and Mrs. W. Montgomery, who were responsible for the success of the father's night banquet and the annual Christmas party given for the entire school.

Members of the study group were urged to be present at an all-day meeting at Mrs. C. L. Dillingham's home on Friday, January 27, at 10 o'clock.

Mother singers were asked to be present at the Central Grammar school on Wednesday, January 25, to discuss songs for the state convention.

Literary Guild Discusses Old China

Old china, a subject which intrigues most women today and the possession of which is greatly to be desired, was the theme of Mrs. Herbert Dickard's talk before members of the Literary Guild in the home of Mrs. Clifford Johnson.

When the roll was called each member responded with interesting information regarding a piece of old china they displayed.

Mrs. Ernest Holloway gave an excellent talk on the subject of Wedgwood and Spode china and displayed several beautiful pieces.

Mrs. Dickard's talk on "Staffordshire Wares," was informative and intensely interesting. She said in part:

"The desire for collecting china began very early in England, but it was Oriental china that filled the cabinets, with some time a few pieces of Delft, decorated in china fashion. Before 1694 Queen Mary had quite a number of vases in which she delighted, on which houses, trees, bridges and mandarins were depicted. It is a matter of speculation if the vases described had on them designs similar to what we now know as Willow pattern and which every English potter turned his attention to at one time or another. They are to be found all over this country, in every shade of blue and every degree of workmanship.

"There is a certain style of design known as 'flow blue' which has nondescript patterns, flowers, geometric design and occasionally landscapes, which has nothing whatever of beauty or interest to recommend it, but which was sent over here in quantities and of which there is still much to be found. Of all discouragements which a china collector has to meet the very worst is flowing blut, next comes the inevitable willow pattern which every English potter made at one time or another, and which is as plentiful as a blade of grass. It varies in color from fine old blue, to a tint so reddish as to be almost purple.

"Staffordshire potters may be said to begin with Ralph Wood. He was considered the most outstanding English potter making Staffordshire ware. The bulk of his work was made for and sent to this country. (Ralph was the father, succeeded by his sons.)

"It is well for us to know that it seems to have been a custom among English potters as well as Americans, to design certain borders, which grew to be as distinctive a mark of the firm employing them as the stamped name. Wood chose sea shells and of this border there are two arrangements; the central view is shown in a circle, and a cockle shell is conspicuous in the border with name of scene on back. Second arrangement: the central view is in irregular opening, shell border but without cockles. Name of scene generally on face. Another distinction is the name Wood impressed on many of his pieces. Most of his patterns were views of historical nature. Over forty of them were valuable historical documents in the story of our country's progress. The coloring of his pieces were dark blue, occasionally one would be of pastel coloring. These borders varied some.

"He not only made plates, platters, low vegetable dishes, but toilette sets and pitchers as well. There are curious details to be noted in collecting this old china. You never seem to find a piece pertaining to a particular locality in the place it celebrates. If you want a view of Albany you might begin your search in Buffalo or visa versa."

Miss Johnson Weds Irvin W. Richardson

Announcement is made today by Dr. and Mrs. J. H. Johnson of Ferriday, of the marriage of their daughter, Jeanne Wilkes, to Mr. Irvin W. Richardson, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. I. Richardson of Hannibal, Mo.

The ceremony was solemnized at the home of the bridegroom's parents with Rev. Paul Quillman, pastor of the Hannibal Christian church, officiating.

A lovely setting for the service was the arrangement of trailing ivy and baskets of white gladioli and maiden hair ferns, the baskets being placed before candelabra holding tall white tapers. These were lighted by two little girls, cousins of the groom.

The bride had as her only attendant Miss Rosemary Myers. The groom had as his best man Mr. Richard Watts.

The bride wore a dress of golden tan with wine colored accessories. After the ceremony the guests were invited to the dining room, where a wedding breakfast was served.

Mrs. Richardson is a graduate of Ferriday High school and attended Whitworth college at Brookhaven, Miss., and the University of Missouri, Columbia, Mo., and is a member of Chi Omega. Mr. Richardson is a graduate of Hannibal High school, attended La Grange college, received his master in architectural engineering at Washington university. He is a member of the Sigma Chi fraternity.

They are making their home at 104 North Hawkins street, in Hannibal.

How Women in Their 40's Can Attract Men

Here's good advice for a woman during her change (usually from 38 to 52), who fears she'll lose her appeal to men, who worries about hot flashes, loss of pep, dizzy spells, upset nerves and moody spells.

'Out West With The Hardys' To Open At Paramount

Lew Ayres and Maureen O'Sullivan in a scene from "Spring Madness" which plays Wednesday at the Paramount theater. Ruth Hussey, Anne Morriss, Jacqueline Wells and Joyce Compton are in support.

The inimitable and beloved "Hardy Family," who have become America's favorite movie entertainment, are back in the fifth of the series of their laugh-packed and tear-tinged adventures, this time laid against the picturesque background of the west. In "Out West With the Hardys" we once again meet up with Lewis Stone, Mickey Rooney, Cecilia Parker, Fay Holden and Sara Haden, with eleven-year-old Virginia Weidler introduced into the family circle for the first time. The picture opens today at the Paramount theater.

Accusing herself of wrecking their home by seeking success as an attorney, Gloria Stuart dramatically defends Lanny Ross and wins his acquittal of murder. "The Lady Objects" plays Tuesday at the Capitol theater.

Latest Hit Of Family Series Here

Stone, Rooney, Parker And Other Stars Included In Big Cast

WHEN the Hardys go wild west in the wide open spaces. Judge Hardy faces the serious problem of keeping his energetic family properly corraled, but with his usual wisdom and understanding he manages to settle Andy's troubles, prevents Marian from making a hasty marriage and solves the perplexing legal difficulties of an old sweetheart in "Out West With the Hardys," which opens today at the theater, for an engagement of three days.

This, the fifth of the Hardy pictures, follows them through another action-filled episode of their colorful doings, replete with hilarious comedy, human, heart-warming pathos, trials and tribulations. It brings new laurels to the favorites millions of motion picture fans have come to know and to love, Lewis Stone as the judge, Mickey Rooney as Andy, Cecilia Parker as Marian, Fay Holden as Mrs. Hardy, Sara Haden as Aunt Milly, Ann Rutherford as Andy's "steady" girl friend, Polly, and Don Castle as Dennis Hunt, Marian's Carvel boy friend.

It also introduces a new guest star in Virginia Weidler, eleven-year-old frozen-faced comedienne, who gives one of the picture's top performances as Jake Holt, the "orniest" cowgal in Arizona, who pins Andy's ears back when he gets too cocky. Also new to the cast are Gordon Jones, Ralph Morgan, Nana Bryant, Tom Neal and Anthony Allan.

Given an adventurous background of modern ranch life, the Hardys go-to-town when they are invited to the ranch of Dora and Bill Northcote. Dora was a former sweetheart of the judge, who has read that he is an expert on water rights and asks him to aid her in a battle over a river that is essential to her ranch. Andy immediately clashes with Jake, who proves that she is a better "man" than Andy by out-riding him, out-shooting and out-roping him. Marian falls in love with the handsome ranch foreman, Ray Holt. The judge succeeds in ironing out these difficulties but fails to settle the water rights tangle until Mrs. Hardy comes to his rescue. It all ends gayly and happily.

George B. Seitz, behind-the-scenes father of the Hardys, directed the picture. Like "Love Finds Andy Hardy" and all of the Hardy pictures, it is grand entertainment for the entire family.

Ticks can live eight months without water and three years without food, according to scientists.

"The Sisters," starring the most exciting star combination of a decade, Errol Flynn and Bette Davis, plays Friday at the Capitol theater. Anita Louise and Jane Bryan, seen above with Bette Davis, are in the supporting cast which also includes Ian Hunter, Donald Crisp, Beulah Bondi, Alan Hale and Dick Foran.

The above scene is from "Sweethearts," starring Jeanette MacDonald and Nelson Eddy, which comes to the Paramount theater next Sunday for a three-day engagement.

PARISH HIGH SCHOOL IS PRESENTED IN CONCERT

A good-sized audience attended the concert of the Ouachita Parish High School band given in the school's auditorium Friday night.

Escape, if you can, die, if you can't! Thus do prisoners of "Devil's Island" look into their grim future. Boris Karloff plays the lead in the Warner Bros. drama coming Friday to the Paramount theater.

Lloyd Film At Capitol On Thursday

HAROLD LLOYD returns to the screen, after an absence of over a year and a half, in a mirth-quake of laughter entitled "Professor Beware," the film that plays for the refugee benefit Thursday at the Capitol theater. He has chosen for his story a tale as typically Lloydian as his world-famous glassless "eye-glasses," and as is his custom, presents a charming new leading lady, Phyllis Welch.

In his latest film venture Lloyd plays the part of a down-and-out Egyptologist whose desire to help anyone in distress causes him to be bounced out of the halls of learning and sends him on a crazy dash across the continent with Miss Welch at his heels.

The picture opens in California where Lloyd is seen as the slightly screwy professor employed in the Egyptian wing of a leading museum. In his desire to help Miss Welch get a screen test, he aids an inebriated talent scout, William Frawley, who has lost his trousers, thereby losing his own pants . . . and his job.

Meanwhile he has received an offer of a job from an archaeological expedition, providing he pay his own fare from the west coast to New York. Broke, he starts his dizzy jaunt across deserts and mountains and rolling plains, all the while pursued by Miss Welch, who, without giving away any secrets of the screen plot, turns out to be a wealthy heiress in the final reel. On his cross-country trip, via freight car and other dubious means of transportation, he runs into Lionel Stander and Raymond Walburn, tramps, who stick to him closer than leeches.

Arriving in New York, Lloyd stages one of the funniest comedy situations it has ever been the privilege of this interviewer to witness. Refused entrance to Miss Welch's yacht anchored in the harbor, he runs amok on the dock, insulting people right and left, until he has a small sized mob at his heels. Then he promptly makes for the yacht, only to find that after he has gained admittance, he has picked the wrong boat. However, as it happens in the movies, it all turns out well in the end. Lloyd misses his boat to Egypt, but gets the beautiful heiress, which makes everybody happy all around.

Lloyd has written several typically Lloydian gags into the script. He is locked in a refrigerator car, with Miss Welch, and comes out as a human icycle; he does his comedy routine of hanging from ceilings and such when he inadvertently gets mixed up with a herd of cattle in another box-car; and he spends a very miserable night on the desert when he becomes convinced that Miss Welch's proximity can mean nothing but disaster.

A gaucho from Broadway, senoritas beware, bad lands be good, he's hitting the high spots, Joe E. Brown in his latest comedy, "Flirting With Fate," with Leo Carrillo and Beverly Roberts, playing today and Monday at the Capitol theater.

STORE OPENING HOURS ARE GIVEN

H. R. Saenger, elected chairman of the board of directors of the retail merchants' division of the Chamber of Commerce, at Friday morning's meeting, stated Saturday that there is some confusion as to hours decided upon for keeping stores open.

Stores of the group will continue to keep hours as at present to February 1. On that date the so-called winter hours will go into effect, from 8:30 a.m. to 5:30 p.m., and on Saturdays throughout the year from 8:30 a.m. to 8 p.m.

On June 1, the "summer hours" will become effective lasting through to Labor day, week day hours being 8:30 a.m. to 5 p.m.

Ten thousand electrical fittings containing 30,000 lamps and supplying enough light for a city of 100,000 inhabitants, are contained in the Queen Mary, transatlantic liner.

The lesson-sermon also includes the following passage from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health With Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy: "The understanding of truth gives full faith in truth, and spiritual understanding is better than all burnt offerings." (p. 286).

GRACE EPISCOPAL CHURCH
Fourth And Glenmar
Edward Farren Hayward, Rector

Services for the third Sunday after Epiphany are as follows: The Holy Eucharist at 7:30 a. m., church school at 9:30 a. m., and morning prayer and sermon at 10:45 a. m.

In today's Holy Gospel we have the story of our Lord's first miracle. In this He manifested Himself (1) as the Creator and Ruler of the material universe, and the Messiah who should feed His people. "All things were made by Him and without Him was not anything made that was made." (2) He manifests His sympathy and fellowship in human joys and in relationships, ordained by God. Of this we are reminded in the marriage service. The providing of a special collect, epistle and gospel for marriage in our prayer book calls attention to our Lord's fellowship in our human relationships and is a reminder to those preparing for marriage that they should make their communions on their wedding day. The epistle contains councils for practical Christian living, and if, with divine aid, these councils are followed we shall attain that which we desire—happiness.

In the collect, we acknowledge our weakness and ask Divine aid—"in all our dangers and necessities stretch forth thy right hand to help and defend us."

The church is open daily from 7:30 a.m. until 5:30 p.m. Come in, rest, pray, give thanks, meditate.

FIRST METHODIST CHURCH
West Monroe
C. Karlos Smith, Pastor-Evangelist

Everybody likes a progressive and worshipful church; we invite you to just that kind of church. Never in the history of the West Monroe church has there been as much interest in the work of Christ and His kingdom as is today exhibited by our people. If you would become a part of a movement to interest mankind in a great brotherhood, be in attendance upon all the services at this church. Our Sunday school is larger than ever, our preaching services and prayer meeting services are attended by large congregations all the time. The reason is that our people are "putting first things first." The Sunday school meets at 9:45 a.m. each Sunday with Mr. R. M. McClendon as our efficient superintendent. Great musical programs are under the direction of Mr. G. C. Williams, our director, with Miss Maida McClendon assisting at the piano, and with a fine choir. Preaching services at 11 a.m. and 7:30 p.m. The public invited to attend every service and take part in every phase of our work.

The church with a welcome.

GORDON AVENUE METHODIST
J. M. Alford, Pastor

The Church School exercises will begin at 9:45 a.m. today with E. K. Reeves general superintendent in charge. Our attendance reached the highest mark this month for more than a year. The interest has greatly increased this year. At 11:00 a.m. the regular worship services will be held with the pastor using as his subject: "God's Law of Reciprocity." At the evening service (7:30) the theme will be: "A Defective Title." The Rev. W. L. Doss, the new presiding elder of the Monroe district, held the first quarterly conference of the year last Wednesday evening. The reports of the pastor and others representing the various organizations of the church showed substantial advances in the work. The Missionary society will meet in the three circles next Tuesday in the homes of the members. The two Epworth leagues will be held at 6:45 p.m.

THE FIRST PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH
Grammont At Catalpa Street
Ernest D. Holloway, Pastor

Resolve:

"To keep my health! To do my work! To live!

"To see to it I grow and gain and give!

"Never to look behind me for an hour!

"To wait in weakness and walk in power.

"But always fronting onward toward the light

"Always and always facing toward the right,

"Robbed, starved, defeated, fallen, wide astray—

"On with what strength I have back to the way!"

You are urged to attend the Sunday school. The Bible is the text and about its facts and principles we study. Our leaders are capable, earnest and anxious to serve. With your presence, it will not be many days until our goal, which is 400, is reached. "Thy word have I hid in mine heart that I might not sin against Thee." "Man does not live by bread alone, but by the words which procede from the mouth of the Lord." "Man's Angelic Possibilities" and "Taking Time To Live" are the subjects of our morning and evening meditations. Will you hear us to our growth under the blessings of God? To all who mourn and need comfort, to all who are weary and need rest, to all who are friendless and want friendship, to all who pray and to all who should pray, to all who sin and need a Savior, this church opens wide its door and makes free a place and in the name of the Lord Jesus, says, "Welcome!"

MOREHOUSE HORSES AND MULES TREATED

BASTROP, La., Jan. 21.—(Special)—Treatment of horses and mules for internal parasites in Morehouse parish is being conducted by Dr. J. D. Jones in cooperation with T. H. Milliken, parish agricultural agent.

Farmers of the Bonita community are urged to have their stock treated Monday at either of the following places: 8:30 a.m. at Robert Huff's barn; 10 a.m. at C. L. Walcott's barn; 1:30 p.m. at J. W. Montgomery's barn; and 3 p.m. at E. K. Jinks' barn.

Sixty-three farmers in the McGinty, Jones and Zachary communities have been cooperating in the treatment of their stock with the result that 193 mules have already been treated for internal parasites and twenty have been treated for bad teeth.

Experimental data, according to Agent Milliken, shows that colic is almost eliminated in horses and mules where treated, and they gain weight at heavy work as compared with untreated horses and mules losing weight.

Things Worth Knowing

CAB-OVER-ENGINE INTERNATIONAL

Like all other Internationals, this cab-over-engine International is all truck—a motor truck with a motor truck motor, a motor truck constructed to withstand the hard usage of a motor truck. It's a cab-over-engine in the fullest meaning of the term. The seat is directly over the engine, not alongside the rear of it. This truck affords maximum extra-loading space, with perfected load distribution on front and rear axles and all wheels. There is greater operating economy. The engine is completely accessible. The cab provides greater comfort for the driver and increased visibility. The steering construction and the shorter wheelbase provide greater handling ease. The International cab-over-engine is an ideal truck for today's crowded traffic. The one pictured above is a one and a half tonner. A full line of International trucks are sold and serviced here by International Harvester company, 720 DeSiard street. The telephone number of the establishment is 228.

U. S. DeLuxe Tires Are Super-Safe

Super-safety at no extra cost—that's what you get when you buy U. S. Royal DeLuxe tires. These tires, which are just being introduced by U. S. Rubber company, are as modern as 1939. They are the outgrowth of years of tire experience and experimentation.

Besides having running strips, one more than the sturdy U. S. Royals, the U. S. Royal De Luxe features a tread within a tread. That's what gives it that added margin of safety—what minimizes forward skidding as well as side skidding.

The tread within a tread feature is this: The four middle running strips have more than 2,500 sharp-gripping edges that come into play when traction is required.

These edges extend down through the running strips to the very carcass of the tire, thereby assuring safety until the tire is no longer serviceable. They grab, grip and hold to the road when the brakes are brought into play.

U. S. Royal De Luxe tire has the distinction of being the first and only tire with double-action, non-skid tread—the six running bars plus the more than 2,500 gripping edges.

The running strips are so constructed as to not only give a safer ride, but a silent one. They automatically eject rocks. A vibrationless ride is attained by making the cogwheel blocks of the tire of varying lengths.

U. S. Royal De Luxe tires, both four-ply and six-ply, are now in stock in all sizes at 707 Tire Service, Inc., 501 Harrison street. A demonstration will convince you of their superiority.

The liner Queen Mary has four complete radio transmitters aboard.

If your automobile motor is not too badly worn, its over-consumption of oil can definitely be controlled, without reboring the cylinders, with Elastic STEEL FLEX piston rings.

Poultry Expert On Lane Wilson Seed Co. Staff

Not only does Lane Wilson Seed company, 113-115 North Grand street, deal in highest grade baby chicks and handle a complete line of poultry feeds, remedies and supplies, it has a poultry specialist on its staff. He is W. R. Broome, an expert in culling chickens and diagnosing and treating poultry diseases.

The services of Mr. Broome are available without charge. He is only too glad to be of assistance to poultry raisers. Besides aiding them with their flocks, he assists them in the building of brooder houses. Blue prints for such houses are provided free by Lane Wilson Seed company.

As a 4-H club member, Mr. Broome, in national competition, made the highest score ever attained in flock culling and diagnosis of poultry diseases. He established the record in 1930 and it has never been equalled.

Lane Wilson Seed company is now featuring the New Silver Hen all-metal brooder. Its heating device, which can be adjusted to the size of the chicks, concentrates the heat on the backs of the fowl, where their vital organs are located. Its drawer bottom makes it easy to clean. It is heated by electricity and the thermostat is factory-set so that a uniform temperature is maintained at all times.

The brooder will take care of 100 baby chicks up to 20 days old, 50 up to six weeks and will finish 25 to two-pound-broiler size.

Other brooders of varying prices and types are also available at Lane Wilson Seed company, as are feeders and fountains. The firm also handles all popular breeds of baby chicks, a complete line of Wayne poultry feed and a full stock of poultry remedies. The chicks are U. S. approved BWD tested.

Here's Mr. Broome's formula for poultry raising: Good chicks to start with, good equipment, careful attention and Wayne feed. He says care is one-half the job, equipment one-fourth and feed one-fourth; that Wayne Chick Starter and Wayne Growing Mash will complete any poultry raising job well begun.

O. K. Welder Fixes Motor Truck Tires

Injured truck tires can be restored to hundreds of miles of additional use the O. K. way—a proven method of mending tires by welding new rubber and cords into the damaged spot.

Restoration of truck tires to first-class usefulness is a specailty with O. K. Rubber Welder, 1410 DeSiard street. It mends them permanently. The patch will last as long as the rest of the tire and stand just as much punishment and abuse.

But truck tire repairing is only one phase of O. K. Rubber Welder's business. It also repairs passenger car tires and both automobile and truck tubes. Moreover, it fixes flats and deals in used tires and tubes.

Tires and tubes repaired the O. K. way are guaranteed by O. K. Welder. All work is done under a satisfaction-or-money-back guarantee. The customer is the judge.

The balance of tires is unaffected by O. K. welding. They are warranted not to bump at any speed. An O. K. weld is stronger than the rest of the tire or tube. It is absolutely dependable and permanent and will stand any wear or abuse the tire or tube itself will stand.

O. K. welding costs less, is speedier and is exact. Being automatic, the O. K. rubber welder removes guess work from tire and tube repairing. It combines pressure and heat in the welding process and protects that portion of the tire in the immediate vicinity of the patch from being "deadened" by excessive heat. The rubber welded into a tire or tube is just as "live" and flexible as the original rubber.

Let O. K. Welder handle your next job and judge for yourself.

The telephone number of the establishment is 9233.

CENTER CAGERS TO MEET LOUISIANA COLLEGE

FINNS GETTING READY TO STAGE 1940 OLYMPICS

Appropriation For Support Of Games Voted By Nation And City

HELSINGFORS, Jan. 21.—(AP)—Most of the people around the world may not be thinking very much about the 1940 Olympic games right now, but a great many in this picturesque Finnish capital are.

Parliament has voted a budget of 200,000,000 finmarks (approximately $5,000,000) for support of the games and the city has subscribed another 100,000,000 finmarks.

Arrangements are being made to accommodate 160,000 guests daily during the spectacle, which is scheduled from July 20 to August 4, 1940. Fully half of the spectators are expected to come from foreign countries and committees already are busy considering housing problems.

Hotel facilities will be hopelessly overtaxed. Private houses, apartments, schools and even tents will be used.

Most of the athletes will be quartered in an "Olympic village" in a wooded area of the suburb of Kapyla. Contracts for 29 three-storied houses providing some 2,500 rooms have been let to a building society, which, after the games, will lease the houses as private dwellings.

A school already on the site will be the administrative center. A trotting race track will be used for training purposes.

Women competitors are to be boarded in a nurses' training college now being built. Participants in the pentathon, riding, fencing and yachting will be accommodated at a cadet school to be constructed.

Invitations to compete were sent to 80 countries in October and acceptances have been coming back steadily. England's entry, telegraphed immediately upon receipt of the invitation, was the first.

The size of the program, which has increased consistently since the resumption of competition at Athens in 1896, touches a new high with 132 events. This compares with 129 at Berlin and 118 at Los Angeles.

Revisions have eliminated some events contested previously and added new ones. Omissions from the Berlin program include hockey, handball, polo, basketball and women's gymnastics. Additions include four athletic events, bringing the track and field total to 33, and two new shooting and two new gliding items. Gliding was a demonstration event at Berlin and is being included in the official competition for the first time.

Efforts are being made, too, to give the Finns a good look at the Olympic running of their national favorite, the marathon. Recognizing the fact that many persons who want to see the race can't be inside the stadium for the finish, the committee is considering a circular course of about five miles. It is estimated this would permit some 200,000 spectators on nearby hillsides to see the marathoners pass at least five times.

ALABAMA CAGERS WHIP VANDERBILT

TUSCALOOSA, Ala., Jan. 21.—(AP)—Alabama captured its sixth Southeastern conference game in seven starts tonight by defeating Vanderbilt's strong club 30-24.

The Crimsons took an early lead and, although Vandy stayed within striking distance throughout, were never headed. Prather, Alabama's speedy center, dropped in seven field goals and two free throws to hog scoring honors with 15 points. Lipscomb had seven tallies to pace Vandy.

KNOT-HOLE GANG FORMED

NEW YORK, Jan. 21.—(AP)—Times are getting better for kids in Brooklyn. The Dodgers have organized a knot-hole gang for boys from 10 to 15 inclusive and members will be admitted free next season. Boys will be admitted free only to Saturday afternoon games during the school year, but will be given free seats to all but holiday and ladies' day games when school is out.

OLYMPIC TEAMS GETTING FUNDS, COMMITTEE SAYS

Commendable Progress In Financing Squads For 1940 Games Reported

By Bill Boni

NEW YORK, Jan. 21.—(AP)—Though it has no intention of staying your hand on its course from pocket book to collection box, the American Olympic committee today is pleased to report commendable progress in the financing of teams for the 1940 games at St. Moritz, Switzerland, and Helsingfors, Finland.

Nation-wide drives by such far-flung organizations as the United States Junior Chamber of Commerce and the National Collegiate Athletic association, in addition to separate campaigns by the individual sports committees, already have assured sufficient funds for all but one of the winter sports teams and promised more of the same for the summer teams.

Since the winter games come first on the calendar, financing of their teams was the more urgent problem. With the exception of the bob-sledders, it is such no longer.

The United States Figure Skating association has agreed to underwrite its team of seven, to be chosen on the results of the present national championships at St. Paul and the North American championships at Toronto February 3-4. Collection boxes and the sale of pins and other emblems are bringing in the necessary cash for the speed skaters, eight of whom will be chosen to go abroad on the basis of tryouts which already have begun.

The hockey committee raised $1,250 through an exhibition game in Boston, is doing well with collections and sales and can, if it must, raise far more than needed by scheduling pre-Olympic exhibitions in Europe next winter.

Even the National Ski association is planning to send a 20-man team to Europe.

The drive for winter sports funds has been so successful that the A. O. C. is sure it will have no difficulty in drumming up financial aid for track and field, swimming, rowing and the other summer sports. The major sports in this group, in fact, still have funds left over from the 1936 games at Berlin. But the A. O. C. hopes it will not be necessary to tap these reserves, since its chief aim is to build up a trust fund in each sport large enough to pay future teams' expenses out of the interest alone.

With this in mind, the A. O. C. would like to emphasize that all contributions still are being accepted gratefully and will be welcome as long as you care to send them.

TULANE BOXERS DEFEAT MAROONS

Fistic Program Marked By Two Knockouts And Three Draws

NEW ORLEANS, Jan. 21.—(AP)—The boxers of Tulane university defeated Mississippi State's mittmen 4 1-2 to 3 1-2 tonight. The issue was in doubt until Warren Jaubert, Greenie heavyweight, outpointed "Red" Ruffin of State.

There were two knockouts. Henry Davis of State put away Julian Freret of Tulane in 1:57 of the first round in the featherweight class, and Cy Hickey of Tulane knocked out Marvin Campbell in 1:35 of the first round in the light heavyweight scrap.

Louis Jones of Tulane outpointed Neal Taylor in the senior welterweight division, and Jimmy Box of State outpointed John Dirmann. The latter are middleweights. There were draws in the bantamweight, lightweight and welterweight classes.

Biggest surprise on the card was the performance of Ed Finley of Tulane, who fought Russell Long of Mississippi State to a draw. Long was welterweight runnerup in the Southeastern conference tournament last year.

Summary:

Bantamweight—August Fisher, Tulane, and Ed Mobley, Mississippi State, draw.

Featherweight—Henry Davis, State, knocked out Julian Freret, Tulane, 1:57 first round.

Lightweight—Van Haart, Tulane, and Buford Blunt, State, draw.

Welterweight—Ed Finley, Tulane, and Russell Long, State, draw.

Senior welterweight—Louis Jones, Tulane, outpointed Neal Taylor, State.

Middleweight—Jimmy Box, State, outpointed John Dirmann, Tulane.

Light heavyweight—Cy Hickey, Tulane, knocked out Marvin Campbell, State, 1:35 first round.

Heavyweight—Warren Jaubert, Tulane, outpointed "Red" Ruffin, State.

MOTORCYCLE RACE WON BY SIMMONS

Hundred-Mile Event For Novice Drivers Captured By South Carolinian

DAYTONA BEACH, Fla., Jan. 21.—(AP)—Woody Simmons, a 22-year-old mechanic from Pelzer, S. C., won the 100-mile race for novice drivers staged by the American Motorcycle association here today on a road beach course.

Today's race was the preliminary to a week end of speed which will be climaxed tomorrow by the running of the A. M. A.'s 200-mile road race championship.

Simmons sped around the 3.2 mile oval at an average of 72.22 miles per hour. He was named winner after a lengthy check by officials.

J. W. Sherrill of Charlotte, N. C., was waved from the course first and was first judged the winner but a check of time and laps disclosed that Simmons was in front by 36 seconds. Sherrill ran second in the official figures and Herman Dahlke of Birmingham, was third.

In the initial check of time and laps, in which Sherill was adjudged winner, Simmons had come in third. The check showed he had driven one lap and not been given credit for it.

Simmons is a comparative newcomer to the motorcycle racing field. He has been racing only a little more than a year. He was entered in the 200-mile run last year here but his machine blew up and he did not finish.

Jimmy Kelly, a racer from Bell, Calif., led the field of 68 starters all the way to the 28th lap, at times having a lap lead on the field. He was forced from the running in the 28th lap because of a broken valve stem, and was unable to get his cycle repaired in time to return.

Thirty-four of the 68 starters finished the grind, but only the first ten were in the money and will be eligible to enter the 1940 running of the 200-mile road-race here.

Other drivers in the first ten as they finished:

Vance Colvin of Shreveport, La.; L. R. Putnam of Belmont, N. C., Bill Smithers, of Richmond, Va.; W. E. Vaughan of Pelzer, S. C., Ross Brenner of Dayton, O., Bob Meany of Dayton, O., Bob Obenberger of Milwaukee.

SABIN TO BATTLE GENE MAKO AGAIN

CORAL GABLES, Fla., Jan. 21.—(AP)—Wayne Sabin of Portland, Ore., who already holds two victories over the distinguished Gene Mako on the winter tennis tour, earned a third crack at the Davis cupper by downing Hal Surface of Kansas City, 6-1, 6-3, 6-0, in the Miami Biltmore semi-finals today.

Blond Mako of Los Angeles, erstwhile doubles partner of the abdicated Don Budge, disposed of Gardnar Mulloy of Miami, former eastern intercollegiate champion, 6-4, 6-3, 7-5.

The rivals clash again tomorrow.

Mako and Jack Tidball of Los Angeles, the top-seeded doubles team, moved into the finals but Mulloy and Charles Mattman of New York upset the second-seeded tandem of Surface and Cooke, 6-4, 6-8, 6-4. Mako and Tidball trounced Jack Shostrom of Chicago and Sabin, 8-6, 6-4.

According to estimates, American women spend three times as much on their cosmetics as British women do.

'PEPPER' MARTIN BECOMES FARMER

Cardinal Veteran Devotes Off-Season To Working Rich Bottom Land Place

OKLAHOMA CITY, Jan. 21.—(AP)—A shiny new tractor wheezed to a halt in the corner of a field still spotted with snow.

John L. "Pepper" Martin, the wild hoss of the Osage, slid out of the driver's seat. He surveyed his latest love, a rich bottomland farm just a hop, skip and jump from Oklahoma City.

"Yeh, we bought this farm last fall," said Pepper. "It's going to be my insurance for tomorrow."

But the stubby St. Louis Cardinal veteran declined to say how soon he thought "tomorrow"—the day his stout legs and sharp eyes wear out—would come.

"I'm 34 years old and next season will be my tenth year in the majors," he offered. "But I can still run like hell.

"I've got a good foundation," and he patted one of his thick, muscled legs. "That's what comes from eating plenty of corn bread and beans when you're young."

Pepper headed the tractor and plow into a shed.

"Boy, this is the life. I didn't know plowing with a tractor could be so easy. Sure is fun. Shucks, there's nothing like watching things grow."

What about Junior Munsell, the Indian heavyweight boxer Pepper once bought a half interest in and managed for a time?

Baseball is Pepper's first love, but in past off-seasons he has turned to managing prize fighters, midget auto racing and deer hunting for recreation.

"I've seen Junior a couple of times this winter," he said, "but I don't have time to bother with fighters. I've got a farm."

What happened to that midget racer Pepper used to drive and frighten the daylights out of his wife and the Cardinal front office?

"I sold that. You'll lose all your friends if you keep driving one of those things."

Pepper still likes to hunt, but he is content with shooting nothing larger than rabbits.

What about the Cardinals' chances this year?

"Ray Blades, the new manager, is a fine young fellow and a hustling ball player. We'll have a good young club and I think we'll finish in the first division.

"But right now," he said, "I gotta churn."

EXERCISE BOY RELEASED TO PROBATION OFFICER

GLENS FALLS, N. Y., Jan. 21.—(AP)—An exercise boy who a county prosecutor said admitted carelessly dropping a lighted cigarette in the Sanford stud farm barn at Amsterdam, N. Y., just before a fire burned 25 blooded horses to death, was released today in custody of a probation officer.

Warren County Judge Paul L. Boyce described as "too meager" the evidence on which the youth, William Dougrey, 15, of Glens Falls, was held, and ordered his release to Patrick Mannix, Warren county probation officer, pending further investigation.

The barn and the 25 horses which were destroyed in the January 9 fire were valued at $200,000.

More than 10,000 cities and towns in the United States now have public water systems, as compared to only 3,000 communities with waterworks in 1900.

MORE EXPECTED BEFORE DEADLINE TUESDAY MORNING

Third Annual Basketball Rally To Be Held Friday And Saturday

Thirty-two high school basketball teams of north Louisiana have already filed their entries into the third annual Northeast Center of L. S. U. basketball tournament to be held here Friday and Saturday and several others are expected to register for the meet before the deadline Tuesday morning.

Coach A. S. Huffman, physical educational director for men at Northeast Center, who will have charge of games in the boys' division, announced last night trophies would be awarded to first, second and third-place teams in each division in addition to the usual individual awards. Heretofore only first and second-place trophies have been given.

Invitations were mailed a week ago to 66 high schools of this area, but Coach Huffman said last night he did not wish to leave the impression that the meet was strictly invitational. Any high school in north Louisiana that might have been unintentionally missed when invitations were being mailed may get into the tourney by sending in an entry at once, Coach Huffman said.

J. M. Boyette, president of the state high school athletic association, has also given official sanction of the tournament, it was announced here.

Schools already entered in the meet and coaches of the respective teams have been announced as follows:

Boys—Eros, W. H. Rockhold; Marion, C. W. Causey; Collinston, Louis Reily; Dubach, J. B. Mount; Ansley, W. D. Tullos; Kilbourne, A. C. Fryday; Rayville, John R. Myrick; Okaloosa, H. P. McBride; Weston, W. P. Brown; Winnsboro, L. E. May; Ogden, Elmer Hatton; Oak Grove, F. H. Weems; Bonita, H. Weston; St. Matthew's of Monroe, Rev. M. J. Broussard; Start, G. J. Fleischmann; Oak Ridge, W. Donald Turner; Ouachita of Monroe, Leo Hartman; and Clarks, H. C. Miller.

Girls—Bastrop, Mildred Moore; Oak Ridge, C. D. Greer; Eros, W. H. Rockhold; Collinston, Nan Floyd; Kilbourne, Eunice Head; Rayville, Elva Harris; Weston, R. Caskey; Winnsboro, Wiggins Robinson; Ogden, Birdie Hatton; Bonita, L. Lusk; St. Matthew's of Monroe, Mildred Breard; Ouachita of Monroe, Mrs. Elizabeth Manheim; Clarks, H. C. Miller.

Preliminary games will get underway Friday morning with girls playing in the Center gymnasium and boys playing in the Ouachita Parish High school gym. All final games, however, are to take place at Northeast Center on Saturday night.

GOOD YEAR FOR CARDINALS SEEN

Optimistic Report On Outlook For Team Made By Joe Medwick

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla., Jan. 21.—(AP)—An optimistic report on the outlook for the St. Louis Cardinals came today from Joe Medwick, the hard-hitting outfielder who takes his baseball seriously and isn't given to loose talk.

First of the Cards to reach the site of the spring training camp, Medwick came here from Orlando, where he was an instructor at Joe Stripp's baseball school.

"Ducky"—he likes the name "Muscles" better—said he looked for Pitcher Paul Dean's comeback to be a big help to the team. And he expressed complete confidence in Ray Blades, named manager last year to succeed Frankie Frisch.

"We hated to lose Frankie," Medwick commented, "but the ball club owners want a winner and when you don't win somebody has to suffer. In this case it was Frankie. The Cards finished sixth last year.

"From what I hear, Blades is a smart fellow and we'll all be plugging for him.

"I understand we have some bright-looking rookie prospects reporting next month but who they are and what they can do we'll have to wait to find out."

Driving here with Medwick in the automobile he won in a popularity contest last summer were Mrs. Medwick, their small son Mickey and a maid.

The outfielder, who slumped a few points last season after leading the league in almost every department in 1937, looked to be in top shape already.

He said he would keep fit by golfing, fishing and hunting until the rest of the team gets here next month.

Neville Mittmen Schedule 2 Matches For This Week

Tigers To Tangle With Lafayette Here After Battles In Bastrop

The Lafayette High school Lions will invade Monroe next Friday night for an engagement with the Neville High school boxing team, but in the meantime the Bengals will tangle with Coach John LeTard's Bastrop High school Rams at Bastrop on Wednesday night.

The Tigers, defeated in some mighty close fights by Istrouma's Indians at Baton Rouge Friday night, returned here yesterday at noon in good shape and ready to begin work toward their other meets.

The coming of Lafayette, which has a stellar team this year, according to reports, will give the Tigers their second card of the year before local fans. However, the Rams should be able to give them plenty of action at Bastrop Wednesday.

Unlike the teams of Farmerville, Lake Providence and other teams of this area that have lost their stars of the past few years, the Bastrop team still boasts an array of former tournament point winners and champions that are capable of turning the tables on the defending district champs.

Members of the present Bastrop team who have won tournament points or titles are David White, 145; Tony Byrd, 155; Ben Milam, 118; M. Quinn, 135; Roy Campbell, 126; and Glenn Allgood, 135. Coach LeTard also has a scrappy bunch of lighter boys in T. Goodnight, 90; Joe Rigsby, 98; T. Tugwell, 100; and E. Parker, J. Hightower, and J. Eubanks, 112.

White as a 112-pounder in 1937 was the most outstanding scrapper in his weight in this area when he won the district title but did not enter the state meet. He was runner-up for the district 98-pound crown in 1936, and finished third in the 126-pound class last year in the tourney here.

Byrd ranked third among the district 112-pounders in 1936, and was runner-up for the 118-pound district title in 1937. Milam was district 98-pound champ in 1937 and ranked third among district 112-pounders last year. Allgood was a point winner in the 1936 district tourney as a 105-pounder; Campbell finished second in the 105-pound class in 1937; and Quinn was runner-up for the 118-pound district title last spring.

White, who won his first and only fight of the season with a one-round knockout over Jones, of Forest, a week ago, will probably be matched with Talmadge Stout, rugged Neville 145-pounder. Allgood may be matched against Robert Gates in the 135-pound scrap; Byrd is likely to face Perry Snyder; Milam or B. Bazine will probably meet Guy Miller in the 118-pound fight; and Campbell will probably take on Buck Brantley.

11-GAME SCHEDULE IS ANNOUNCED BY FLORIDA

GAINESVILLE, Fla., Jan. 21.—(AP)—Professor Dean Slagle, chairman of the athletic committee, today announced a 11-game schedule for the University of Florida football team next season.

Two new opponents for the 'Gators appear on the schedule, University of South Carolina and University of Texas, replacing Sewanee and Temple.

BABE'S BARRIER MAY BE REMOVED

Screen In Rightfield Of Sportsman's Park Believed Hurting Browns

ST. LOUIS, Jan. 21.—(AP)—Stretched in front of the right-field pavilion at Sportsman's park in a screen that stands as a reminder of the Babe Ruth era—and now it may come down.

The barrier was erected about a dozen years ago during the hey-day of the mighty Bambino, who used to pop home runs into the pavilion like rain drops on a tin roof.

The screen covers the pavilion from the top of the wall to the roof and reaches from the right field foul line to deep center. Batters who hit the wire get as many bases as they can, the ball being in play after it caroms off.

The first day the New York Yankees came to town, after the screen had been erected, Ruth smashed two vicious drives against it. He ranted and regaled the patrons with gestures to indicate his displeasure at being "robbed" of home runs. It "robbed" him of many more before his career was over.

Now that the Babe is gone, Bill De Witt, vice-president of the Browns, opined that perhaps the screen was hurting his team's sluggers more than it did visiting home run hitters.

Do members of the Browns hit the screen more or fewer times than do the batters of other teams?

De Witt didn't know the answer to that question, but he said he intended to find out, if possible, by checking past records and, if not, by keeping statistics on the 1939 season.

If the Browns' home run output would be accelerated without helping other teams too much, De Witt said he would have the screen removed.

Such an action has a precedent set last season by the Cincinnati Reds, who moved ome plate 20 feet nearer center field during an alteration of Crosley field.

As a result, the Reds' home runs increased from 13 in 1937 to 50 in 1938 and had an important part in the team's pennant-contending position. Enemy teams jumped their home runs from 15 to 31 as a result of the change, a difference of 16 as compared with the Reds' increase of 37.

HARRISONBURG BOYS AND ENTERPRISE GIRLS WIN

ENTERPRISE, La., Jan. 21.—(Special)—Harrisonburg and Enterprise High school junior basketball teams emerged victorious in the Enterprise High school tournament for junior cagers held here yesterday.

Harrisonburg's junior boys won over the Fort Necessity aggregation, 24 to 12, in the boys' finals, and the junior girls of Enterprise defeated the Harrisonburg sextet, 21 to 12.

A large crowd was in attendance at the games which were conducted by Kerfoot Brooks of Jena.

TRIBE, WILDCATS TO TANGLE HERE THURSDAY NIGHT

Game Scheduled For 8 O'clock At Ouachita Parish High Gymnasium

The Northeast Center of L. S. U. Indians hope to begin an era of athletic rivalry with the Louisiana college Wildcats when they face the institution's basketball team here Thursday night at 8 o'clock in the Ouachita Parish High school gymnasium, it was announced last night by Coach James L. Malone.

The Wildcats have several outstanding cagers and the Tribesmen are expecting a hard game with the visitors, but Coach Malone sees the coming of the Louisiana college aggregation as the forerunner of further athletic competition with the Pineville school, primarily in football.

The Thursday basketball game will mark the first time that a Louisiana college varsity team and Northeast Center have met in a sporting event. Several local fans and alumni of Louisiana college have sought to match the two schools on the gridiron, but no arrangement for such a meeting has ever been made.

Coach Malone last night said he would like to add the Wildcats to his football schedule and predicted that the coming basketball rivalry might mean a short-cut toward further athletic relations with Louisiana college.

Outstanding performers on the Wildcat quintet are Bill Gruber, rated as one of the best sophomores in S. I. A. A. circles this year; Victory Borher, a guard, who hails from Miami, Fla., and who is in his junior year; Harry Aguillal, a junior, rated as an all around floor performer; and "Chubby" Mitchell, Aguillal, a forward, is from Basile, La., and Mitchell, a guard, is from Boyce.

The game was switched from the college gymnasium to the Ouachita gym in order to provide more seating space for the attendance expected.

The Northeast Center team, back in cage circles after an absence of five seasons, has developed fast in the last two weeks with the result that they have an even score of three wins and three losses, all their victories coming after they had lost three straight. With a little more team work, the Indians would be hard to stop.

Dick Bolton, the Tribe's high scoring forward, has totalled 91 points in the six games, an average of slightly more than 15 points a game, and Big Bill Singleton, star guard, has made good 14 out of 15 foul shots.

Coach Malone gave his charges a day off from practice yesterday after their 22 to 21 triumph over the Louisiana Tech Bullpups at Ruston Friday night, but they will resume their practice sessions tomorrow.

Walter Haymans, who totaled 12 points, tied the score at 26-26 a few seconds before end of regulation time with a long field goal, climaxing a five-point scoring flurry within 45 seconds. Paul Pare, forward, was high for the Greenies with 11 tallies.

JOE LOUIS FAVORED OVER JOHN HENRY LEWIS

FEDER EXPECTS KNOCKOUT ABOUT MIDDLE OF BOUT

Associated Press Writer Can't Follow Reasoning Of Ballyhoo Boys

By Sid Feder

NEW YORK, Jan. 21.—(AP)—It will no doubt come as a tremendous surprise to all followers of the science of sock to learn the ballyhoo boys are smoking up John Henry Lewis to give Joe Louis the business in their heavyweight championship fight next Wednesday night.

It is being pointed out that (1)—Lewis never has been knocked out, (2)—He plans to turn the trick by a body attack, thus taking the Bown Bomber completely by surprise, and (3)—he is too finished a boxer to be caught by those high-calibre shells from the Louis artillery.

It also is being brought home that Jolting Joe must be in the "killer" frame of mind to do his best. He was that way against Maxie Baer, and against Max Schmeling last summer, with results as expected. The chances are, it is believed, he won't be quite that way in Madison Square Garden Wednesday because he and John Henry are palsy-walsy offstage.

Granting all that, there are a few factors that should give Joe just a slim chance of retaining his heavyweight crown over the 15-round route, in the first all-negro title go since Jim Johnson fought Jack Johnson to an eight-round draw in Paris some 25 years back.

First off, Joe is as proud of that title as he is of his appetite, and that's quite something. Secondly, though he has been jolted by a punch on the chin, he also has shown his ability to come back, notably in the convincing manner he polished off Jimmy Braddock, Jorge Brescia and Natie Mann after each had belted him a good one.

You can say as often as you want to that John Henry never has been keyoed, but you can't overlook the fact that he has been off his pins. Isidoro Gastanaga sat him on the seat of his panties something like half-a-dozen times, and while Isidoro may have been as hard a puncher as Joe—which has been claimed—he certainly never threw so many fists, nor tossed 'em so straight, as the young man from Detroit. And don't forget Joe will have about a 15-pound weight pull Wednesday, scaling around 200 to John Henry's 185.

The body attack may work. Ring veterans insist Joe never has been tested in the neighborhood of his bread basket. That may be true, but it doesn't seem logical to expect Joe to stand there while John Henry takes pot shots at his short ribs.

John Henry is a classy boxer, probably as smart a ring general as Joe ever met. But you don't win the heavyweight title solely on boxing. Even Gene Tunney had a left hand that made the other fellows feel as if they were on the business end of a pig-sticker.

Finally, the betting boys have installed Joe on the top end of 6 to 1 odds, and even have gone so far as to say he has a 3-1 c' nce of finishing off John Henry before the scheduled curtain-lowering in this, his fifth defense of the championship. The betting boys, particularly those who have been taking a kicking-around this winter from such upsetters as Billy Conn and Red Burman, aren't offering that kind of money for charity's sake. They leave that business to the Salvation Army.

Thus, to the slightly beclouded eye of this observer, Joe Louis should knock out John Henry somewhere about the middle of the evening, within ten rounds, anyway, before a crowd that should be close to the Garden's 18,000 capacity. John Henry can be hit, as his sparmates have shown, and if a fighter can be hit—well, sometime ask Max Schmeling about Joe Louis.

Seabiscuit To Meet Weak Santa Anita Handicap Field

DETROIT PUTS PLAY FOR PAY RULE IN FORCE

Tigers Are Going To Have To Earn Their Salaries This Year

By Harry Grayson
(NEA Service Sports Editor)

DETROIT, Jan. 21.—Detroit's golden era of baseball . . . all sport, for that matter . . . comes to an end with a Tiger play for pay rule.

When Mickey Cochrane skyrocketed a set of Tigers known for their defeatist complex to a pennant in 1934, he also boosted salaries all the way along the line.

The Detroit club hit its peak in a spending way when Cochrane paid the White Sox $75,000 for a fading Al Simmons after the Bengals had repeated in 1935 and went on to the world championship.

Detroit managed to run second in 1936 and '37, but dropped to fourth position last season, making it plain that a rebuilding program was necessary.

With this rebuilding program comes a general reduction in salaries. All but two or three athletes are affected.

One exception, of course, is Henry Greenberg, the current home run king.

Next to the Yankees and Cubs, Detroit paid the highest salaries in baseball in 1938 and the team played its worst ball in five campaigns.

Several veterans, including Tommy Bridges and Billy Rogell, have already been informed that their pay for 1939 will be considerably less than what they received in 1938.

While there can be no holdouts in January, or even in February, more than one Tiger has remarked that he would not play for the salary offered.

Bridges is first to make his objections public. The little righthander returned his contract unsigned from Nashville.

Bridges also sent his contract back a year ago. At that time the club agreed to his demands, but indications are that it will remain firm this trip.

Detroit will present an entirely new left side in the infield.

Del Baker is banking on Frank Croucher at shortstop, which relegates Rogell to the utility role.

Croucher is the Houston lad who broke his leg in training last spring, but recovered in time to finish well with Beaumont.

Pinky Higgins, obtained from the Red Sox, lends stability at third base.

Naturally, Greenberg and the dependable Charley Gehringer are fixtures.

Pitching will be built around Schoolboy Rowe, if he does a comeback. Bridges, Freddie Hutchinson, Roxy Lawson, and Vernon Kennedy. Baker has great faith in Schoolboy Hutchinson, for whom the Tigers rewarded Seattle so handsomely.

Catching remains a problem, with Birdie Tebbetts having the inside track. Rudy York is practicing chasing flies and making long throws at his Georgia home.

A third catcher is Edward (Dixie) Parsons, who is being brought up from Beaumont. He resembles Bill Dickey of the Yankees and will do if he is half as good.

Detroit will string along with Chet Laabs for a while longer. In the outfield it also has Dixie Walker, Pete Fox, Roy Cullenbine, Frank Secory, and Leslie Fleming, the latter two being imported from the Beaumont farm. Fleming is a first baseman who hits a long ball and who is to be converted.

But outside of Greenberg and Gehringer, only one thing is certain. That is, that the noble athletes will have to earn their pay.

TWO-MAN BOBSLEDDERS RETAIN NATIONAL TITLE

LAKE PLACID, N. Y., Jan. 21.—(AP)—The national A. A. U. two-man bobsled title remained today with Ivan Brown and A. M. Washbond, Keene Valley, N. Y., garage owners, undefeated in two years of major competition.

With Brown at the wheel and Washbond at the brake, the pair roared through the four one-mile heats on the Mt. Van Hoevenberg run in the total time of 5:03.50. Only 1.05 seconds separated the first three teams. Using new and wider runners ordered by the International Federation for bobsledding and tobogganing this year as a safety measure, the winners—1936 Olympic two-man champions—failed by 11 seconds to equal the course record which they set last year.

Clyde Phipps and Nick Ruscitto, Schenectady, took second place by .22 of one second from Matthew Mohanan, former North American champion driver, and M. J. Kallensack, Lake Placid.

THE WRIGHT COMBINATION

The PAYOFF

By Harry Grayson
(NEA Service Sports Editor)

Harold Olsen says that the best medicine for a coach who complains continually about basketball officiating would be to give him a whistle.

The large Ohio State mentor had his lesson at Galesburg while drilling the Bradley varsity.

"I went there to work a game alone between Knox and Monmouth," recalls Olsen. "Monmouth had a poor team and the boys decided to play football instead. I called everything I could see. Pretty soon Knox got tired of the abuse and began retaliating.

"Both coaches and the supporters of each team got after me. I was busy stopping fights the entire second half."

No other game is as tough to officiate as basketball.

Olsen refuses to get excited about the Buckeyes' results.

"It only shortens your life and after all it's only a game," he smiles.

M'GRAW DROVE YANKS OUT OF POLO GROUNDS

Horace Stoneham says that if Colonel Jacob Ruppert and his father, Charles A., had been left alone, the Yankees would stil, be playing in the Polo Grounds.

Charley Stoneham had John McGraw and Frank McQuade to consider as associates.

McGraw was a National league diehard.

Nothing that had anything to do with the American league was any good to him. It was like waving a red flag in front of a bull.

"That's why," asserts Horace Stoneham, "McGraw was glad to see the Yankees pull out and build Yankee Stadium."

Horace Stoneham points out that in anything that had to do with baseball Colonel Ruppert was a baseball man first, and a Yankee man afterward.

He explains that he found that out when it was necessary for the Giants and Yankees to pool their interests and talk over things that had more to do with the general welfare of the game than with the individual clubs.

ICE REFEREES PURPOSELY OVERLOOK MANY PENALTIES

Mickey Ion explains that a hockey referee lets a lot of things go in an ordinary game. If something happens between the blue lines that certainly isn't going to affect the score, officials pay no attention.

They don't want to slow up the game unnecessarily . . . spoil it for the crowd.

But Ion bumped into a different situation in Toronto the other night when he called 24 penalties on the Red Wings and Chicago Black Hawks, whose feud dates back to the Stanley Cup finals last spring.

"I knew of the bad blood and blew the whistle every time there was the slightest excuse for it," relates Ion, the veteran.

"Some of the boys were determined to have a roughhouse.

"They believed that sooner or later I'd get tired of calling penalties, but I fooled them.

"I knew I could last longer blowing the whistle than they could taking those bumps on the boards.

• • •

PLAYERS AND OFFICIALS ARE NOT SWORN ENEMIES

"I wasn't trying to break the record for penalties.

"I was trying to keep the peace, and, though I didn't succeed very well, I am sure I did cut down the chance of serious injury."

Ion once signaled for 26 penalties in a game between the Montreal Victorias and the Sheiks in Saskatoon.

"When the game was over, the crowd rushed the officials," he recalls, "and I doubt that we would have gotten away without being mobbed by a couple of players. Lester Patrick and Frank Boucher, with the Victorias then, used their sticks to clear a path for us out of the building."

Ion thinks of that incident whenever he hears anybody assuming that hockey players and officials are sworn enemies.

TENNESSEE TRIPS KENTUCKY CAGERS

Vols Come From Behind To Administer Upset To Wildcats, 30-29

LEXINGTON, Ky., Jan. 21.—(AP)—The University of Tennessee Volunteers came from behind to administer a 30 to 29 setback to the University of Kentucky Wildcats in the latters' first southeastern conference game of the season tonight.

Tennessee took the lead for the first time in the final period when Putnam broke loose for a basket with six minutes of playing time left. Huber gave the Wildcats a one-point margin with a shot from the side but a moment later Huffman shoved one through from under the basket and the Vols led, 27-26.

Tennessee never was headed thereafter.

41 TEAMS QUALIFIED FOR SEMI-PRO TOURNEY

WICHITA, Kans., Jan. 21.—(AP)—Forty-one semi-pro baseball teams will be permitted to defend their title in this year's state tournaments without qualifying through district playoffs, Raymond Dumont, president of the National Semi-Pro congress, said tonight.

Two teams—Buford, Ga., and Enid, Okla., winners of first and second place, respectively, in last year's national tournament—previously were qualified direct to the 1939 national meet to be played in Wichita, August 11 to 23.

Other teams exempted from district qualifying tournaments for 1939 included:

Louisiana, Baton Rouge Essos; Mississippi, Laurel All-Stars.

FEW CONTENDERS APPEAR CAPABLE OF TAKING RACE

Nothing Has Shown Up To Shake Confidence Of Backers Of Horse

By Robert Myers

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 21.—(AP)—It is still Seabiscuit against the field in the coming $100,000 Santa Anita handicap, and the field at this writing seems none too powerful to stop the wiry stake champion from winning the big race March 4.

Santa Anita's 52-day meeting is one-third over, and to date nothing has shown up to shake the confidence of the Seabiscuit backers.

Several strong contenders have yet to show their wares, and several crack three-year-olds must always be reckoned with, but a handful of potential threats have already proven disappointments and Mr. 'Biscuit looms stronger than ever.

Prior to the running of the 1938 "hundred grander," the Seabiscuit admirers had reason for extreme nervousness. There were Pompoon, The Chief, Aneroid, Calumet Dick and Top Row, all worriers at one time or another before the race was run, and suddenly Maxwell Howard's mighty Stagehand, then a colt, barged into the picture and eventually under the wire a nose in front of Seabiscuit to capture the rich purse.

Earle Sande has Stagehand set to go against War Admiral in Florida this year in the $50,000 Widener cup, and none of the other above named horses were nominated for the $100,000 Santa Anita.

Out of the 107 candidates nominated for the race here, horse experts pick but few which appear capable of extending Seabiscuit. There is Heelfly, Alfred G. Vanderbilt's candidate. Heelfly has been a disappointment here so far, but if his handlers can get the 5-year-old to break right, he might do better than the dead heat he once ran with Seabiscuit.

Conflicting are the opinions on Dauber, E. E. Fogelson's purchase from the Foxcatcher farm. Dauber won the Preakness, ran second to Lawrin in the 1938 Kentucky Derby and bowed a tendon at Hollywood park last summer. Fogelson bought Dauber after this, gave him a long rest and now he is back in training. Whether he can get up to the post remains to be seen. Horsemen know that thoroughbreds seldom come back after a bow.

Esposa, a great mare, has raced once this season and ran out of the money. It was hardly a true test, but experts call the Santa Anita a race for the males, not the mares.

Most feared colt on the lot is W. E. Boeing's Porter's Mite. The Mite easily won the $10,000 Santa Maria stakes January 7 to become the leading candidate for the $50,000 Santa Anita Derby and become a threat in the big handicap. Another likely colt, yet to be seen, is Xalapa Clown, weighted, along with Porter's Mite, at 106 pounds. Seabiscuit is down to 134.

Overlooked by many, but good enough to run fourth in the 1938 Santa Anita handicap, is Nelson Howard's Gosum, which set the handicappers back last week with a sparkling win in the $10,000 San Pasqual handicap. Gosum carries 110 pounds in the March 4 race, two more than he had last year.

The Seabiscuit faction is far from over-confident, but believes the Seabiscuit stands a better chance than ever to make his third try for the $100,000 purse a lucky one.

WESTON PLANS CAGE TOURNEY

Basketball Rally Announced By School Officials For February 4

WESTON, La., Jan. 21.—(Special)—The annual Weston High school basketball tournament for both boys and girls will be held here Saturday, February 4, it has been announced by W. P. Brown, coach. At least 35 teams are expected to participate.

Trophies and awards will be as follows: A 16-inch sun-ray trophy and individual gold basketballs to the winning boys' team; a 15-inch silver trophy and individual gold basketball medals to the winning girls' team; silver basketballs to individuals of both second place teams; and a sportsmanship award to teams in each division exemplifying the best sportsmanship.

The tourney will be directed by competent officials, Coach Brown said.

Coaches of the contesting teams will meet in the local gymnasium at 8:30 o'clock on the morning of the tourney to draw for places in the meet. Final games will begin at 7:30 p.m.

All entries must be filed not later than February 1. Entries have already been received from Jonesboro, Ouachita of Monroe, Winnfield, Quitman, Clarks, Chatham, Eros, Dodson, Bernice and Gaar's Mill.

The Weston Wolves last Tuesday divided a double-header with the Friendship aggregations. The local girls lost, 15 to 14, but the Weston boys emerged victorious in their game, 15 to 10.

China, including all her dependencies, has the largest population of any nation in the world, and Andorra the smallest.

HEMSLEY MAKES NO PROMISES

Rollicking Rollie Hazards No Prediction On His 1939 Behavior

DELRAY BEACH, Fla., Jan. 21.—(AP)—Rollicking Rollie Hemsley, the Cleveland Indians' playboy-catcher, isn't so sure he can stay out of trouble with club officials this year.

"You can't tell," he said, "I'll probably get along all right with them, but I'd rather make no predictions."

Frequent tiffs have been costly to Hemsley, who never has regarded training rules as sacred. One of Oscar Vitt's first duties as manager of the Indians last spring was to send Rollie home when the player showed up with a black eye and other evidences of wandering beyond bounds.

When Rogers Hornsby managed the St. Louis Browns he had several runins with Hemsley but never could keep him under control.

Once the season got under way last year, however, Hemsley settled down to have one of his best years. He batted .296 in 66 games.

Hemsley is valuable to the Indians because of his ability to handle young Bob Feller. The catcher believes Feller will have a successful season this year.

As far as Hemsley is concerned there is no comparison between Feller and Fred Hutchinson, the sensational Pacific Coast league speed ball pitcher who brought a whopping price from the Detroit Tigers.

"Hutchinson ain't as good." Rollie commented. "He hasn't showed it. The boy's coming up, but Bob's already up."

How about the Indians?

"We'll be up there in the race," promised Hemsley.

The catcher and his wife are staying at a seaside trailer camp near here until the Cleveland training camp opens at New Orleans.

Feller is expected here soon to complete an all-Cleveland golf foursome. He and Hemsley will try their skill against that of Cy Slapnicka, Cleveland vice-president, and Harry Lajoie, former Indian who spends the winter at Lake Worth.

YOU CAN FIND ALMOST ANYTHING IN STABLE

HOT SPRINGS, Ark., Jan. 21.—(AP)—It's getting so you can find everything in the stables but horses.

The racing secretary at Oaklawn park was walking down stable row the other day when he got a shock. He had seen the regular pet show in the stables—dogs, goats, cats, parrots, canaries, bantam chickens and love birds. But when he saw Ralph Towles, a negro exercise boy, stroking an ant eater he was licked.

Towles, a resourceful young man, bought the animal in Cuba when he was having a tough time catching up on his sleep between races. The ants bit him. He found the ant eater in Havana, bought it and has slept like a baby at Havana and elsewhere ever since.

P. S. The ant eater likes this country fine.

SMITH AND METZ IN FRISCO FINALS

Oak Park Pro Beats Coltrin In Semi-Finals; Chicagoan Defeats Ward

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 21.—(AP)—Horton Smith, veteran Oak Park, Ill., pro, defeated Ben Coltrin, San Francisco, 2 and 1, today in a semi-final match of the $5,000 San Francisco match play open golf tournament.

In tomorrow's 36-hole finals he will meet Dick Metz, Chicago, who won from Marvin Ward, Olympia, Wash., amateur, today, 3 and 2.

A hole-in-one gave Coltrin a one-stroke lead at the end of their first nine.

Smith sank a 20-foot putt for a birdie 3 on the 11th to even the match. He went one up on the 13th when Coltrin conceded the hole after hitting his drive out of bounds and shanking the next shot. Smith was seven feet from the pin, and was given a birdie 2.

Smith went two up on the 14th, where Coltrin hit his second into a trap to end up with a bogey 5. The latter won back a hole, however, when Smith hit his tee shot into a trap. He carded a 4 to Coltrin's par 3.

A 30-foot putt rolled in for Smith on the 16th, giving him a birdie 4 on the 566-yard layout and he coasted out by halving the 17th in par 5.

Metz popped a 12-footer into the cup to win the 11th with a birdie 3 and go two up. He added another with a par 3 on the 13th, where Ward was trapped to take a 4. The next three holes were halved in even par to enable Metz to clinch the contest on the 16th green.

Coltrin's hole-in-one was the most spectacular shot in the nine-year history of the San Francisco open. On the uphill layout, his ball landed about two feet beyond the pin. The backspin on it drew the ball into the cup as if it had been attracted by a magnet.

The best golf of the day was turned in by Metz, winner of the recent $5,000 Oakland open. He finished his match two under par. Smith wound up one under standard figures, and the two losers were a stroke over par.

Smith, one of the most accurate putters in the business, ran true to form He knocked in three from distances of 40, 30 and 20 feet.

Metz's victory was marked by shots which traveled on a bee line most of the time. His approaches split the pin.

Both he and Ward pulled off recovery shots from behind trees on the par 71 Lakeside course that drew tremendous applause from the gallery.

The winners will meet over the 36-hole route tomorrow for the major prize of $1,050. The runner-up will receive $550.

In this morning's quarter-finals, Metz defeated Sam Byrd, Philadelphia, 4 and 3; Smith put out Leonard Dodson, Springfield, Mo., 4 and 3; Coltrin eliminated Harold McSpaden, Winchester, Mass., 2 and 1, and Ward won from Ben Hogan, White Plains, N. Y., 1 up. This match was the closest of the day, the amateur planting an approach four feet from the pin on the 18th to get his winning birdie.

YANK CONTRACTS SENT OUT TO 38

NEW YORK, Jan. 21.—(AP)—The world champion New York Yankees took the first step today toward what the baseball world expects will be their fourth straight American league pennant.

Contracts for the 1938 season were sent out to 35 players and three coaches. Fourteen are newcomers from the Yanks' minor league farms at Newark and Kansas City. One, Pitcher Earl Hildebrand, is a recent importation from the St. Louis Browns. The rest are holdovers.

Generally, the salary scale mentioned in the contracts was higher, particularly for fellows like Bill Dickey, Joe Gordon, Joe DiMaggio, Red Ruffing and Lefty Gomez, who spark-plugged the club to its record-smashing accomplishments of last season.

As usual, the figures were not announced, but knowing the ball players involved, as well as the Yankee policy, it's safe to assume DiMaggio's salary will be well over the $25,000 for which he played last year. That Gomez's $18,500 salary plus bonus for '38, is boosted, probably to a flat $20,000, and that Gordon, the second-baseman and outstanding rookie of 1938, will be well rewarded for his work. Ruffing probably will get in the neighborhood of $20,000 and Dickey will be in the $25,000 area.

Lou Gehrig, who suffered his poorest season last year, is down for a slight slash.

STOCKS DROP ON FLARE-UP FEARS

Traders Take Cover After Ousting Of Schacht; Declines 1 To 4 Points

By Victor Eubank

NEW YORK, Jan. 21.—(AP)—Stocks toppled one to around four points in today's market as traders scurried to cover on fears of another European flare-up in the wake of the ousting of Dr. Schacht as president of the German Reichsbank.

Dealings were fairly active from the start, but offerings expanded in the final half-hour sufficiently to put the ticker tape behind for a brief interval. There were some come-backs near the close, but recovery tendencies were scarce in most departments. Transfers totaled 657,380 shares for the two hours.

News on the domestic front was moderately cheering, but speculative forces were said to have developed more apprehension than usual over the foreign outlook and lightening of commitments was the rule after the opening.

Steels, motors, aircrafts, rubbers, rails, specialties and even some of the recently buoyant utilities were in the forefront of the day's retreat.

There were a few exceptions. Safeway Stores hit a new 1938-39 peak when the company's preliminary statement revealed net profits last year amounting to $4.02 a share compared with $2.62 in the previous 12 months. Loew's pushed up following yesterday's court dismissal of a minority stockholders' accounting suit against the management.

Baltimore and Ohio gave ground easily as an individual bond holder filed an action in the United States district court in New York asking a receiver be appointed for the road.

Steels paid scant attention to predictions of a 5 1-2-point jump in mill operations in the Pittsburgh district next week.

Stocks were rather steady after the get-away as financial quarters read of the broadcast by Elliot Roosevelt indicating the government planned a meeting with utility officials to promote a better understanding between the New Deal and this industry.

Bonds trailed stocks on the backdown and commodities were uneven. Both sterling and the French franc weakened in terms of the dollar.

ORTUNE DAZES RUPPERT HEIRESS

elen Winthrope Weyant Greatly Surprised At Receiving Bequest

NEW YORK, Jan. 21.—(AP)—A 37-ear-old former chorus girl who did hat everyone would like to do—woke p and found herself a millionaire—asn't decided what to do with the ast fortune left her by Colonel Jacob Ruppert.

"Some good, I hope," smiled Helen Winthrope Weyant, a trim chestnut-aired woman with a pert face and well-kept figure.

However, she has no plans for the uture—because she hasn't had a hance to catch her breath yet. But he has no thought of matrimony.

Her blue eyes were still bewildered t yesterday's news that she had been equeathed one-third of the $30,000,000 o $70,000,000 estate of the spruce lit-le 71-year-old bachelor sportsman, whom she described as a "very old riend."

"I feel awfully honored," she said. I am surprised—and a little frighened. I knew nothing about it, not even when I saw him the night before he died."

Neither the actress nor her attorneys know exactly how much she will receive—but she is one-third owner of the wealthy world champion New York Yankee baseball club, and has an equal interest in one of the world's largest breweries and in an accumulation of Manhattan real estate greater than anyone else has piled up except the Astor clan.

Heavy state and federal inheritance taxes will chop off more than half the estate, but Miss Weyant was expected to receive more than $5,000,000. She also will receive a tax-free bequest of $300,000 cash.

The other two-thirds of the estate go equally to two nieces of Ruppert —Mrs. Joseph Holleran and Mrs. J. Basil Maguire, both of Greenwich, Conn.

Miss Weyant and her co-heirs won't have to worry about administering their empire in baseball and beer. A quartet of business associates was named by the little colonel as executors.

Bewildered by her sudden prominence, Miss Weyant said she herself could not understand the bequest.

"I had not idea that I was going to be remembered in that way. Colonel Ruppert was an old friend of my family and I have known him since I was a child."

She said a mutual fondness for animals had cemented the friendship between them. In recent years she said she had served as hostess for Ruppert at week-end parties on his Garrison, N. Y., estate.

Miss Weyant, who gave up the stage in 1929, said her only hobby was music. She lives with her mother and her brother, Rex, an assistant traveling secretary for the Yankees.

Coming here from Winthrop, Mass., in 1920 after graduation from high school, she appeared as a chorus girl in "Three Cheers" with Will Rogers and in "The Merry Malones" with George M. Cohan. Her last appearance was with Eva LeGallienne's civic repertory theater.

OIL REFINERY AT SHREVEPORT CLOSES

SHREVEPORT, La., Jan. 21.—(AP)—The Shreveport refinery of the Atlas Pipeline corporation was ordered closed Saturday, Ben Gray, vice president of Atlas, said here Saturday. The refinery has employed 150 men with a weekly payroll of approximately $4000. All employes were dismissed.

"There is little or no money in manufacturing nowadays," was the only statement officials would make on the closing.

The refinery during the past year has taken crude oil from the east Texas, Cotton Valley, Schuler, Lisbon and Shreveport fields. It has a capacity of 12,000 barrels per day.

The Atlas corporation made the first connection in the Shreveport field last August shortly after R. E. Allison opened the area. Since that time, the company has taken 130,257 barrels from Shreveport field.

The Atlas Pipeline corporation is controlled by Lion Oil Refining company, with headquarters at El Dorado, Ark.

VICTIM IDENTIFIES HANDSOME GUNMEN

CLEVELAND, Jan. 21.—(AP)—Mrs. Robert Montis, attractive Cleveland widow, learned today she must tell a grand jury about the two handsome gunmen who pretended to arrest her and then "lifted" her purse.

Police say the robbers were Payton and Quentin Wilson, arrested as highwaymen while posing as "big-shot" aviator-sportsmen from the gulf coast. Their comely victim identified them as the two men who last week forced her car to the curb, requested her driver's license, and then robbed her at the point of a gun.

Accused of more than a score of robberies between here and New Orleans, the two brothers are charged specifically with robbing Mrs. Montis. They pleaded innocent today and were bound over under bond of $50,000 each, which they could not furnish.

ENGINEER ASSIGNED ON $4,000,000 BRIDGE JOB

ATLANTA, Jan. 21.—(AP)—Regional Director H. T. Cole today assigned Rollin Ritter as PWA project engineer in charge of construction on the new four million dollar Mississippi river bridge at Natchez.

Ritter, who resided in Florida for the past 20 years, received an appointment as a PWA engineer in 1936 and was assigned to an electric development at Lakeland in his home state.

Since that time he has specialized in bridge construction problems and supervised erection of bridges at both West Palm Beach and Boca Raton in Florida. He will leave West Palm Beach for his new assignment immediately.

Greetings will be extended by Dr. James Monroe Smith, president of L. S. U., at the opening session. Speakers on the first day's program will be Coleman Lindsey, state senator and deputy state bank commissioner; Dr. M. Nadler, of the research division of New York university; J. J. Driscoll, Jr., Philadelphia banker; Professor B. C. Croft, Louisiana State university school of geology; J. N. Quinn, Hugo, Colo., banker; and dinner address by Judge Pierre Crabites.

Thursday's program will include talks by the following: Dr. M. Nadler, L. F. Gordon, Atlanta, Ga., banker; J. M. Magruder, president Federal Intermediate Credit bank, New Orleans; George Buskie, New Orleans; Fred L. Bailey, state director Federal Housing administration; John S. Linden, vice-president Chase National bank, New York; dinner address by Nicholas Bauer, superintendent New Orleans schools.

On Friday H. H. White of New Orleans, and J. J. Driscoll will deliver short talks and adjournment will take place following the luncheon.

LOUISIANA COLLEGE CONFERENCE TO BE HELD AT PINEVILLE

RUSTON, La., Jan. 21.—(Special)—Fifteen colleges of Louisiana will be represented at the first state-wide Louisiana college conference, March 10-11, at Louisiana college, Pineville, according to Dr. Herbert L. Hughes, dean of the school of arts and sciences at Louisiana Tech, who is secretary-treasurer of the conference.

Members of the conference's executive committee are as follows: G. W. Bond, former president of Louisiana Tech, now a member of the faculty at Southeastern college at Hammond, and president of the conference; Dr. Claybrook Cottingham, Pineville, Louisiana college president; Murphy Rogers, Natchitoches, dean at Louisiana State Normal college; Dr. Hughes of Tech and the Rev. James F. Whelan of Loyola, New Orleans.

The Louisiana college conference has been known in the past as the Louisiana college division or section of the Louisiana Teachers' association. That group decided recently to change the name to "conference" and meet twice a year, at the teachers' convention and also at a special meeting. It is still to remain a part of the teachers' association, it was emphasized by Dr. Hughes.

Colleges in the conference are: Louisiana Tech, Ruston; Centenary college, Shreveport; Dodd college, Shreveport; St. Vincent's, Shreveport; Louisiana State university, Baton Rouge; Northeast Center, Monroe; Southwestern, Lafayette; Southeastern, Hammond; Louisiana college, Pineville; Tulane, New Orleans; Loyola, New Orleans; Newcomb, New Orleans; Dominican college, New Orleans; St. Ursuline college, New Orleans, and the State Normal college, Natchitoches.

AZALEAS AGAIN BECKON PILGRIM

Time Nears For Annual Springtime Review Of Ante-Bellum Mansions

NATCHEZ, Miss., Jan. 21.—(AP)—The colorful spray of the blooming azalea as February approaches is beckoning the pilgrim again to the deep south for the annual springtime review of southwest Mississippi's old ante-bellum mansions.

Dusky descendants of slaves of the old south, sensing the first harbingers of spring, are polishing up Confederate silver and brass, rubbing to a soft glow the mahogany and rosewood and shaking moth balls from treasured rugs and brocatelles in preparation for the thousands who flock here in March to catch a glimpse of southern hospitality.

Everything will be arranged in stately old mansions in the styles of old south legend and the visitors will be entertained in the social life of long ago with Confederate balls and pageants, candlelight soirees and musicales featuring negro spirituals in old-fashioned churches.

Twenty-two homes are listed for the visits to Natchez, a quaint city high upon a 200 foot bluff overlooking the Mississippi river, for the annual pilgrimage of the garden clubs in March and April.

Numbered among them are smaller ones of the pioneer type built in the 1790's and stately white-columned mansions erected by the prosperous cotton plantation owners of the days preceding the war between the states.

Woodville and Port Gibson, Miss., nearby, also offer many spots of historic interest of distinctly southern flavor for the early March pilgrims.

Woodville, county seat of Wilkinson county which boasts of being the boyhood home of Jefferson Davis, president of the Confederacy, was selected by the extension department of Harvard university as most typical of the old south because it has been least changed by reconstruction and industrial expansion.

As a boy Davis lived at Rosemont plantation and rode his horse daily to Wilkinson county academy, just south of Woodville.

Port Gibson, settled in 1788 by Samuel Gibson, is said to retain in this modern day much of the atmosphere of the 19th century in spite of the development of its industry and agriculture.

It has buildings also of historic interest, among them the Presbyterian church "with the hand pointing heavenward," built in 1859 and in which hang chandeliers from the famous old Mississippi river packet, "Robert E. Lee."

While some of the historic old plantation mansions with their priceless relics and antiques have burned down through the years the tinkle of crystal and silver and the swish of the hoopskirt still linger in the enchantment of this ancient land.

The six major wars of the United States extended over a period of 15 years. During the last 15 years almost twice as many people have been killed in traffic accidents as were killed or died of wounds in those six wars.

PIANIST

MISCHA LEVITZKI

MISCHA LEVITZKI TO GIVE CONCERT

Noted Pianist Will Participate In Civic Music Association Program

The second entertainer to appear on the Monroe Civic Music association's program for 1939 will be Mischa Levitzki, who will give a concert at Northeast Center auditorium on the night of January 30.

Levitzki, distinguished pianist, is an American by birth, although born in distant Krementchug, in southern Russia. His parents had been naturalized in America previous to a visit to their native land during which Mischa was born.

At an early age Levitzki showed a marked musical talent, and Michailowski of Warsaw became his teacher. When he was eight years old his parents returned to their adopted land. An audition before Walter Damrosch resulted in the boy being enrolled at the Institute of Musical Art in New York under Stojowski. He continued his studies with this master for the next five years. Then he went to Euoope to study under Dohnanyi at the Berlin Hochschule. Twice during his four years in Germany he was awarded the famous Mendelssohn prize as the most talented piano student.

Finally his career was launched with a brilliant Berlin debut. The war interrupted his intention of gaining a European reputation before returning to America, and on October 17, 1916, he made his first appearance in New York, taking the entire musical world by storm.

He has toured the entire world, even in distant Java, Singapore, China, Japan and Australia. He is now making his twenty-second tour of the United States. The record of his extraordinary career during the years he has been before the public shows that he has made 95 appearances in New York, 29 in Chicago, 12 in London, 13 in Sydney, 10 in Melbourne, Australia, 40 in the orient, in addition to hundreds of other appearances throughout the United States and the European continent.

HODGES' GROCERY IS BURGLARIZED

Coat Belonging To Mrs. Jewel L. McQuiller Also Reported Stolen

Hodges' Grocery and Market, 519 Washington street, was burglarized some time Friday night or Saturday morning and approximately $58 taken, according to a report received at police headquarters yesterday morning from Stanley Hodges, manager.

Police Captain F. S. Pettit and Officer C. W. Platt who investigated the burglary, said the store had been entered through the transom over the front door. The screen had been torn out of the transom and the glass broken.

A check-up revealed approximately $58 had been taken in various sums that included $8 in pennies from a desk drawer, $5 in a cigar box on the counter, $2 in nickels and dimes from another place, about $12 which was the proceeds of candy sales; and $30.85 designated as tax money.

Three cartons of cigarettes, five cartons of smoking tobacco and a knife were also missing from the store.

Police yesterday were also seeking a coat, owned by Mrs. Jewel L. McQuiller, parish home demonstration agent. Mrs. McQuiller reported she left her coat on a rail of the stair on the first floor of the courthouse Friday afternoon while she went back to her office for a few minutes. The coat was gone when she returned. It was described as black with a black fur collar.

RETURN FROM CHICAGO

Joe Kusin and son, Louis Kusin, have just returned from Chicago, Ill., and elsewhere, where they went to visit furniture markets.

FIRST SEMESTER ALMOST ENDED

Examinations marking the close of the first semester of the present college year will be initiated at Northeast Center Monday and will continue through Friday. At the same time registration for the second semester will be in progress. All freshmen and sophomores must register by Saturday noon, after which there is an added penalty attached for delay. The examination periods will comprise four each day, Dean C. C. Colvert said.

Monday, January 30, the final semester of the year will start and outlook is for a small increase in attendance over the first semester of the college year.

At the assembly period January 30, a motion picture of the college, its students, faculty and buildings, which was taken a year ago, will be shown in the auditorium. Students are said to be eager to observe this picture.

Dean Colvert stated that satisfactory progress is now being made on the two new structures, the music and library buildings.

A NEW DANGER

SEEING TARZAN IMPRISONED, OGLUT, HIS APE-FOE, GRUNTED WITH SATISFACTION, AND HURRIED----

---TO TELL HIS TRIBE THAT THE MAN-THING WHO HAD BEEN THEIR KING WOULD NEVER RETURN.

MEANWHILE TARZAN, STILL DELIRIOUS FROM THE BLOW ON HIS HEAD, GROWLED AND ROARED IN HIS CAGE.

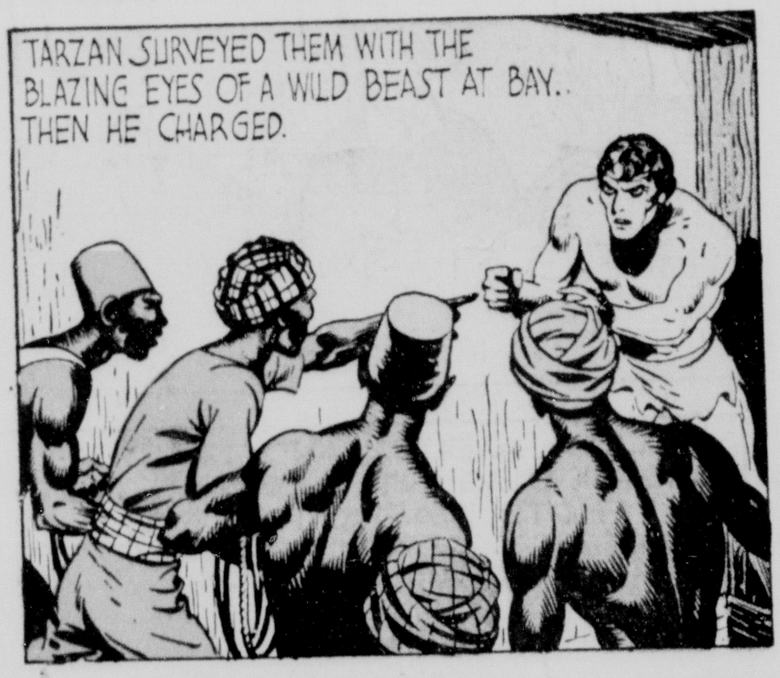

MARSADA WAS ANXIOUS TO TAKE THE 'MISSING LINK' TO JOHN FARR AND COLLECT HIS RICH REWARD.

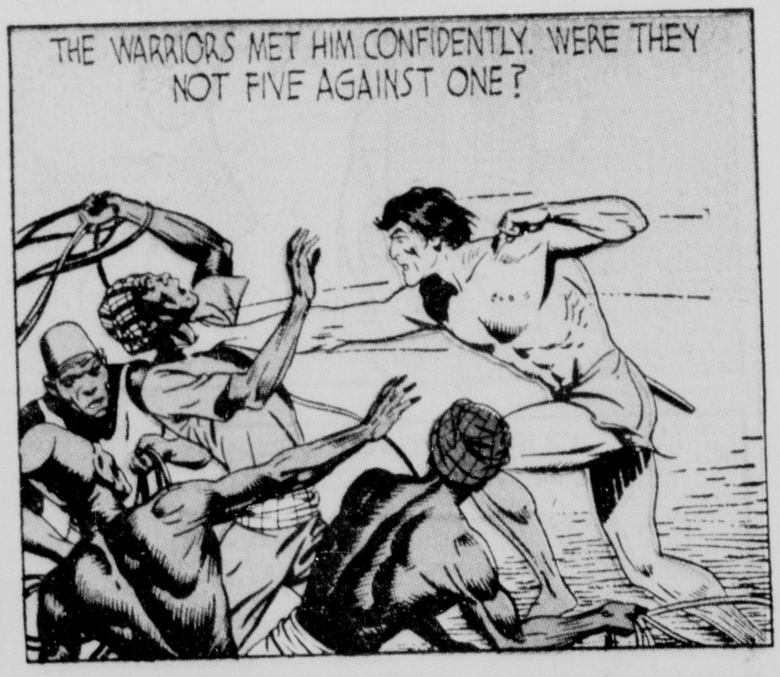

"THERE'S NO USE CARTING THE CAGE," HE SAID. "WE'LL TIE HIS ARMS AND MARCH HIM UNDER HIS OWN POWER."

HE TURNED TO THE BLACKS AND ORDERED FIVE OF THEM INTO THE CAGE WITH ROPES.

TARZAN SURVEYED THEM WITH THE BLAZING EYES OF A WILD BEAST AT BAY.. THEN HE CHARGED.

THE WARRIORS MET HIM CONFIDENTLY. WERE THEY NOT FIVE AGAINST ONE?

THEY DID NOT RECKON, HOWEVER, WITH THE POWER AND FIGHTING SKILL OF THE TREE-CREATURE.

SOON THEY WERE SCREAMING TO BE LET OUT THE CAGE DOOR WAS OPENED.

TARZAN, TOO, DASHED TOWARD IT. MARSADA LIFTED RIFLE TO KILL HIM, SHOULD HE ESCAPE THE CAGE.

HOGARTH-

BUT THE APE-MAN IN HIS UNREASONING FURY, DID NOT NOTICE THIS NEW PERIL!

NEXT WEEK: BEAST OR MAN?

DICK TRACY

THEN YOU THINK SOMEBODY WILL VISIT THIS SPOT AND DEPOSIT SOMETHING IN THAT IRON BOX HID IN THE POOL OF WATER?

I CAN'T TELL YOU, POP, WHAT I EXPECT! BUT THERE'S GOING TO BE ACTION OF SOME KIND AROUND HERE.

I'VE GOT A SMALL WIRE STRUNG IN A CIRCLE 400 FEET IN DIAMETER ALL AROUND THE POOL AND CONNECTED TO THIS MOVIE CAMERA.

ANYTHING TOUCHING THE WIRE CAUSES A SHORT, THAT SETS OFF THIS TRIP AND THE CAMERA GRINDS AWAY.

BUT WHAT IF THE ACTION TAKES PLACE AT NIGHT?

AHA! I'VE LOADED THE CAMERA WITH SUPER-SPEED TRIPLE XXX FILM! THAT WILL AT LEAST RECORD IMAGES AND SHOW US WHAT THEY DO!

WELL..I WILL SAY ONE THING—YOU'VE CERTAINLY GOT IT CAMOUFLAGED TO A "T".

WATCH IT, POP, WHEN YOU STEP OVER THIS WIRE.

TEN MINUTES LATER—BACK IN THE "FARM'S" CLUBHOUSE---

INCIDENTALLY, COME UP TO MY ROOM. I'VE GOT SOMETHING THERE I'D LIKE TO SHOW YOU.

DURING THE WEEK I CAREFULLY REMOVED ALL DUST PARTICLES FROM THAT WATER PROOF IRON BOX HID IN THE POOL.

DO YOU MEAN TINY DUST PARTICLES WILL GIVE YOU HELP ON A THING LIKE THIS?

YOU BET! AMONG OTHER THINGS INCLUDED IN THAT DUST WERE TINY PARTICLES OF METAL.

WHY, SURE—THAT'S FROM THE IRON BOX.

NO, POP, THESE PARTICLES WERE'NT IRON—THEY WERE GOLD AND SILVER. HERE ARE THE TWO TESTS—IN THESE TUBES.

GREAT FATHERS—THAT WOULD MEAN-?- --JEWELRY?

TWELVE HOURS LATER A CAR STOPS ON A CULVERT OVER THE SMALL STREAM LEADING INTO THE POOL.

THE FIGURE DROPS DIRECTLY INTO THE WATER TO AVOID FOOT PRINTS, AND WALKS UNDERNEATH THE CULVERT TOWARD THE POOL.

CURSE THAT WIRE! I ALMOST TRIPPED.
